ABOUT KOH PHANGAN

WWW.PHANGAN.INFO

WHERE IS KOH PHANGAN ?

Koh Phangan is located in Jangwat (province) Suratthani in the Southern Gulf of Thailand and is part of the group of islands that make up the Samui Archipelago; a group of over 40 islands fashioned in granite from age old igneous formations. The provincial capital is also called Suratthani and acts as the main overland transport hub for the islands. Koh Phangan is 70kms from the mainland and approximately 12kms away from Koh Samui which acts as the main air-link to Koh Phangan.

HISTORY AND FACTS

Koh Phangan has always been a beautiful and spiritual place for the Thai people, it has been visited by no less than four Kings of Thailand; with the Great Rama V coming over 10 times, leaving his royal seal engraved on a rock at Thaan Sadet Waterfall; and the current King Bhumibol following in his footsteps. The island was uninhabited until about 600 years ago when passing monks realised its tranquillity and spiritual importance and settled in Wat Phu Khao Noi just outside Thongsala. It is Thailand's fifth biggest island and has an area of 167km^2, thus over 90% of Phangan is unspoilt tropical forest; and due to its granite structure, there are several small mountains where it's possible to trek and even camp. There is an abundance of wildlife from monkeys to birds of paradise and then there is the amazing underwater world that surrounds Koh Phangan; with over 10kms of vibrant coral and 20 local dive sites. And if you have any energy after that, there is the nightlife that the island became internationally famous for, with the globally renowned Full Moon Party and weekly outdoor events in jungle and beachfront venues; not forgetting the daily session that goes off in Haad Rin.

ECO-TOURISM

Koh Phangan has been officially designated as a zone for eco-tourism, so if you are planning to visit make sure that you join in. There are plenty of activities such as doing a local trek up the highest mountain or beach hopping along the east coast - check out the trekking section at page 106. For those that need a bit more speed pick up a mountain bike for around 100 Baht per day. See page 103 for our recommended routes.

MONEY

If you have plastic or travellers cheques, there are plenty of places to get cash; the main towns of Thongsala and Haad Rin have the best selection of exchange booths and banks, who all offer similar rates. Most towns have ATMs and there are a few 7-Eleven's, supermarkets and resorts with them.

Take a look at our town maps of Thongsala (page 124) and Haad Rin (page 140) if you are looking for banks or money exchange services.

INTERNET & EMAIL

Koh Phangan has tons of internet shops dotted around the island which are either independent or inside the hotel; the old dial-up modems are almost a thing of the past as most shops now have ADSL broadband services. For those of you with a laptop, you will find fairly good wireless network coverage around Koh Phangan and Samui.

MEDICAL SERVICES

Koh Phangan Hospital (map page 120) near Thongsala has a good standard of care but lacks facilities, there is an X-ray machine, excellent motorbike wound repair and a weekly dental clinic, but should really be considered as your family doctor and not as fully equipped as Thai hospitals can be. Samui offers several choices if you need good care and the Koh Phangan Hospital will quickly hand over cases they can't handle whilst arranging a speedboat if necessary.

If it is not too serious then there are numerous clinics around the island; two good choices being the Bandon Inter Clinic (below) and Siam Inter Clinic (page 17) in Haad Rin (map page 140). Bigger Hospitals are available on Koh Samui and also in Suratthani.

RESCUE SERVICE

Koh Phangan also has a rescue service kindly run by a group of volunteers to help in any kind of medical emergency. The staff are trained at the Narenthorn EMS Center to be skilled in dealing with common life threatening events, such as motorbike accidents. In the unfortunate circumstance that there is a fatality the Rescue service will help by providing support and guidance, contact friends and family, while also dealing with the police and hospital. The service is free and open 24 hours a day, entirely run on donation any kind of offering is wholeheartedly appreciated. Contact the Rescue service on 077 377500.

TOURIST POLICE

Koh Phangan Tourist Police have a permanent office in Thongsala between the Raja Ferry and Songserm piers (see map page 124), where there are English speaking officers ready to help you in any case. If you need assistance at the Full Moon Party there is a temporary office in Haad Rin near Tommy Resort (see map page 141) and you will also find volunteers patrolling the beach. For more information telephone the hotline on 1155 or the Samui Office on 077 430018.

DANGERS AND ANNOYANCES

Koh Phangan is a very safe place where most troubles are self inflicted; with drink driving and drug arrests the biggest problem makers. Motorbike accidents are fairly common; the unsightly scar has become known as a "Koh Phangan Tattoo" so you should always wear a helmet and shoes; most of the roads here are concrete now so they are crucial, jeans and a jacket are advisable. If you are an inexperienced rider, be careful on sandy corners and do not attempt the hills of Haad Rin or Thong Nai Pan. Taxis and rental jeeps are cheap, especially if you hire one in a group!

Our advice is don't be tempted by drugs; this island has had a bad reputation for a long time and the open taking of drugs is not tolerated. Thailand has also had a crackdown and the police are very hot on stopping the problem. The days are gone when you could buy your way out for a few dollars and the penalties in Thailand are harsh to say the least - expect a hefty fine and possibly an extended jail term if caught.

Theft is uncommon, but if it does happen go to the police station near Thongsala town (see map on page 120) and get a report for your insurance. Always leave your valuables in the resort safe (especially during FMP) and do not give opportunists the chance, as most theft is through an open bungalow window or from the front basket on the motorbike.

Trekking and rock climbing without a guide or proper equipment is not recommended, the island is a big place and gets dark early. Guides can be contacted at the Phaeng Waterfall National Park (see page 106).

PUBLIC TRANSPORT

Songthaew Taxi

A songthaew is a combination of a taxi and a bus and is usually a utility vehicle or pick-up that has been converted to carry people. They work much in the way that public buses do but without bus stops, fare collectors or timetables. Thus if you want to travel at normal price, the car may wait to fill up then pick up and drop off as passengers wish to embark. The most popular route between Haad Rin and Thongsala has a set price of Bt100 per person; but expect this and other prices to double after the last boat arrives.

Longtail Boat

A few years back the only way to get around Koh Phangan was on a longtail boat and it is still a great way to see the island. The east coast beaches of Haad Yuan, Thian, Yao and Yang (map on page 137) are best

Taxi Fares

MINI-BUS & SONGTHAEW TAXI

Thongsala - Baan Tai	100 Baht
Thongsala - Thong Nai Pan	300 Baht
Thongsala - Chalokum	200 Baht
Thongsala - Haad Yao	200 Baht
Thongsala - Haad Salad	200 Baht
Thongsala - Mea Haad	200 Baht

PLEASE NOTE: The taxi fares above are the minimum price per person during daytime - prices will change depending on season and time of day. Also, most of the time the taxis will only leave when full, so you may have to wait - if you want to leave immediately or are travelling alone the fare may be up to 500 Baht to hire the taxi. Always agree the price before getting a ride.

accessed from Haad Rin Nok via longtail taxi boat as is Bottle Beach from Chaloklum Pier (see page 156); boat taxis are also available from Haad Rin Pier, Thongsala, Baan Tai and most beaches. Costs are similar to songthaew prices.

MOTORBIKE & JEEP RENTAL

Motorbikes & Mopeds

Mopeds such as the Honda Dream with gears but no clutch and the fully automatic Yamaha Mio are available from Bt150-Bt250 per day. Dirt bikes such as the Honda MTX125 are more suitable for the rougher roads and the more experienced rider, but expect to pay Bt200-Bt350 per day.

Always check the bike before you take it!

As a word of warning, the roads on Koh Phangan are not the best; many steep hills, potholes and patches of dirt and sand. It is easy to end up out of control causing damage to the bike and probably yourself. Wear a helmet and drive carefully; the island is not a race track.

Finally, never drive around with valuables in the front basket; this is a danger and is also an easy target for thieves.

If you are first time driver we recommend that you either take a taxi or get those legs working by renting a mountain bike.

4WD Jeeps

4WD Suzuki Caribbean jeeps are the best way to get around and can be cheap if shared by a group. They range in price from Bt700 for an old banger to Bt1200 per day for a new one. Most are not insured so if you have an accident you will be in for a hefty bill. Shop around if you want insurance and always ask if there is any. Again, do not be tempted to drink and drive, there are very few road barriers and a lot of cliffs.

NO DRINK DRIVING. The police have been instructed to hand out a steep fine for offenders.

TRAVEL INFORMATION

WWW.PHANGAN.INFO

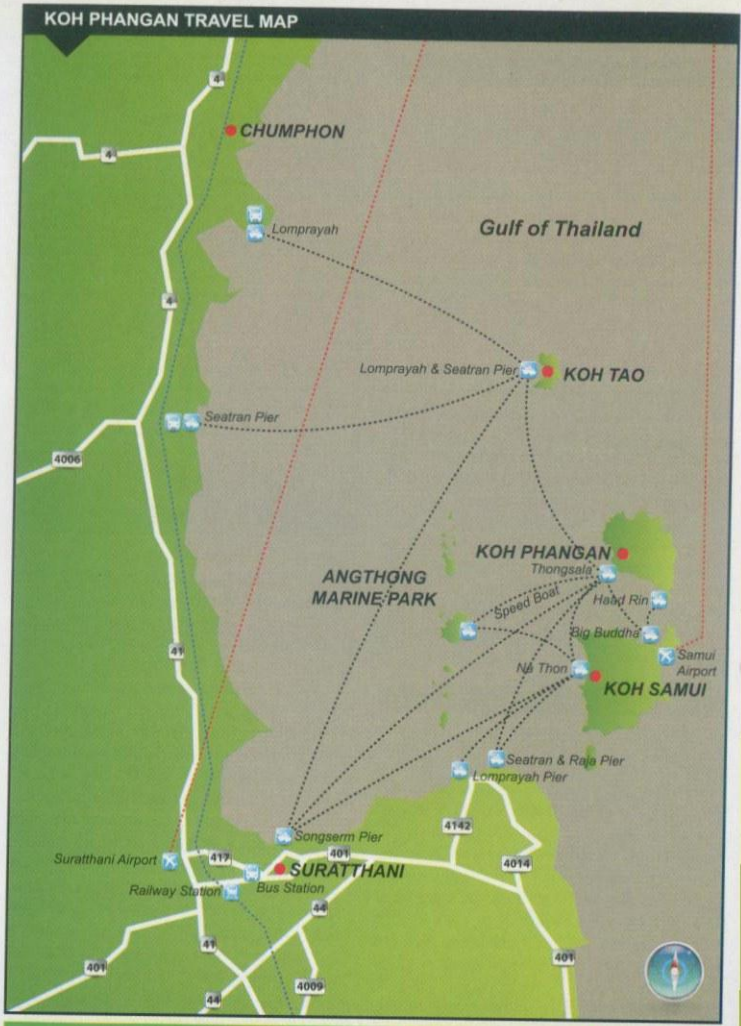

GENERAL INFORMATION

Koh Phangan is most easily accessed via Koh Samui Airport though it is slightly cheaper to fly to the regional transport hub of Suratthani. From Koh Samui a fast boat takes only 30 minutes whereas the journey from the mainland takes around eight times longer. If you come overland, the overnight train is the best option with a first class sleeper carriage ideal for families. Buses are the most economic choice with a trip from Bangkok costing only about 650 Baht, all the way to Koh Phangan. Ferry services are more or less hourly throughout the day from Koh Samui and every couple of hours from the mainland; several boats also go regularly from Koh Tao.

BUS

Most travel agencies will be able to sell an all-in-one ticket from Bangkok to Koh Phangan which includes the bus and ferry ticket for about 650 Baht per person. The price is low because the journey takes all night and is the least comfortable way to travel. Buses depart from Bangkok at around 7pm, arriving early morning in Suratthani in time for the first ferry to the islands. Coming back, there are numerous ferries, but for the bus you will need to depart no later than 1pm. Usually a shuttle bus will drop passengers off in Suratthani to wait until about 7pm at which time the bus will depart to Bangkok. As a more convenient option consider buying a ticket on the well-organised Government Bus which actually goes on the Raja Ferry and saves time and discomfort changing modes of transport – although it is more expensive and will set you back up to 1000 Baht.

There are also several other bus routes (mostly via mini-bus) linking Suratthani with other major destinations.

TRAIN

Second Class (Air Con or Fan) Sleeper trains are the best as you get a table and sofa that turns into fairly spacious beds; the lower bunk is bigger so best. The best of course is First Class with a sink and double bunks in each room, good if you are travelling with a lot of stuff. It is worth booking ahead with a travel agent as the train is a popular choice of transport and fills up quickly during peak periods.

All trains for Phangan stop at Suratthani railway station which is a few miles out of town, so if you have to stay in Suratthani, it is cheapest to lodge near the station otherwise you must rent a Songtaew taxi. Most trains arrive in the morning and guides take you to buses which transport to the ferry port, approximately a 1 hour drive away.

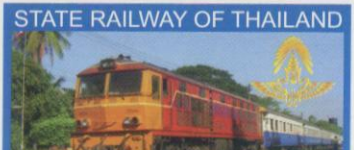

If you arrive at the train station without an onward ferry ticket there are plenty of travel offices opposite the railway station, any of which can arrange the transfer to the pier. All tickets can be conveniently booked in advance online at www.thairailticket.com.

AIR

Koh Samui Airport is the most convenient airport, with Bangkok Airways (www.bangkokair.com) flying in over 40 times in a day from Bangkok, Krabi, Phuket, Pattaya, Singapore, Penang, Kuala Lumpur or Hong Kong. The last boat leaves for Koh Phangan from Big Buddha Pier at 6:30pm, so for flights arriving later than 5pm you may have to hire a private speedboat or stay in Koh Samui; during FMP there are boats all night from Samui from 300 Baht per person.

It is cheaper to fly from Bangkok to the government airports at Suratthani and Nakhon Si Thammarat where a couple of budget airlines are now operating from, especially as Air Asia (www.airasia.com) and Nok Air (www.nokair.com) often run special promotions making flights available at much cheaper rates, though taxi fares and journey time tend to negate savings. It takes a minimum of 5 hours to get to Koh Phangan from Suratthani Airport at a cost of around 500 Baht which includes bus transfer and boat ticket, while the journey is just a minimum of 1 hour from Koh Samui Airport, where you can also buy a convenient mini-bus and boat joint ticket from around 300 Baht up. In order to make the slower route more competitive, Nok Air have teamed up with the faster Lomprayah Catamaran (www.lomprayah.com) to offer an all-in-one ticket between Koh Phangan and Bangkok completing the enitre journey in just over 5 hours. You can book online through www.nokair.com.

FERRY & SPEED BOAT

If you are coming to Koh Phangan from the mainland, buses, trains and planes all stop around Suratthani where you will be transferred to either a Suratthani jetty for the Songserm Ferry Service (3½ hours to Koh Phangan) or to Donsak which is a 50 minute bus ride away. If you stay overnight in Suratthani, the hotel can book you a ferry, or alternatively head for Phangan Tour as they are the main agent for bus transfers to Koh Phangan. From Donsak, Raja (3 hours) car ferry has five services a day or hop on the Lomprayah Catamaran (1½ hours) to arrive in half the time.

From Koh Samui the shortest crossing point is from the Bophut and Mae Nam area where several services run to Koh Tao via the main Thongsala pier on Koh Phangan:

Lomprayah Catamaran (30 mins)
Seatran Discovery (30 mins)

The only service direct to Haad Rin is the Haad Rin Queen (50 mins) which also runs the most frequent service and also has a last boat at 6:30pm if you fly in late.

Songserm Express (45 mins) also runs to/from the main port of Nathon on Koh Samui.

If you are in a hurry or arriving too late for any of the regular ferry services then a speedboat may be a good option from Koh Samui, arriving in only 15 minutes (weather permitting) it is the fastest way to travel between the two islands. While coming from Suratthani the Night Boat departs at 10.00pm which may be able to help out if you don't want to spend the night in a hotel there.

Departing Phangan at 10.00pm, the Night Boat arrives at 04.00am and is a popular choice for quick VISA trips to Ranong (Burma) as you can return the same day. On arrival at Suratthani you'll find travel agents offering the return minibus service at a cost of around 1,500 Baht per person which will include boat transfer to and from the border. This service should have you back at the pier by around 4pm at the latest.

SCUBA DIVING & SNORKELLING

WWW.PHANGAN.INFO

Choose Phangan

More and more people are choosing Koh Phangan as their base for scuba diving, it is less crowded and students tend to get smaller groups with better instructor ratio. Phangan is also closest to Sail Rock, the premier dive site in the Gulf of Thailand. Highlights include some excellent beach dives for beginners and whale shark spotting at Sail Rock. In terms of learning, many dive resorts now have purpose-built swimming pools suitable for training and have first class facilities including free accommodation for students.

DIVING ON KOH PHANGAN

Koh Phangan is an excellent place to dive and snorkel with numerous dive sites and a relaxed yet professional attitude to the sport. Groups are usually small, four people a typical size, with the vibrant coral reef that follows the west coast of the island, there are plenty of beach dive sites and areas easily accessible to snorkellers. It is also a very inexpensive place to learn to dive, with PADI Open Water courses at some of the best rates in the world and courses right up to instructor level. Best of all is the location, as we are only 20 kilometres away from the best dive sites in the Gulf of Thailand.

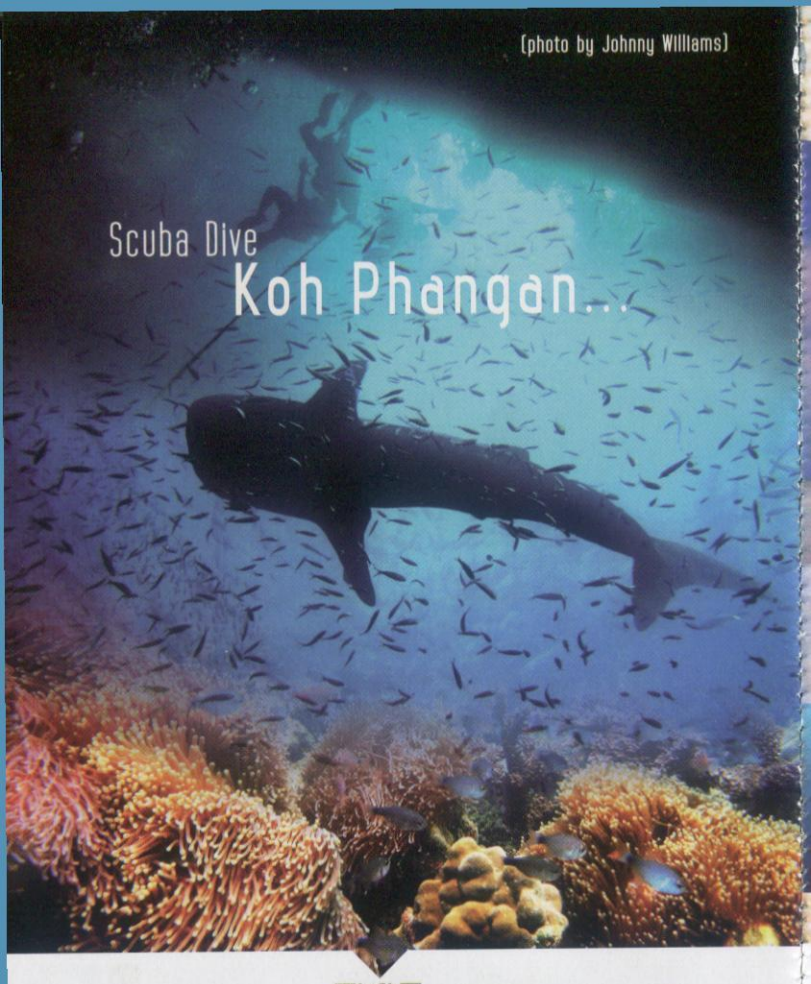

DIVING COURSES

There are various options open to those who want to learn to dive, from a one day introductory course to see if you like it, to the PADI Open Water Certificate that is an internationally recognised qualification to allow you to dive anywhere in the world. For experienced divers there are a multitude of courses such as Rescue Diver, EFR, and even Nitrox Enriched Air for those who want longer down under. There are also Divemaster courses for those who want to enter the first step on the professional ladder in diving, with assistant instructor and instructor courses for the fully initiated.

MAP OF KOH MA

Instantly recognisable, Koh Ma is a natural wonder special to the island of Koh Phangan. Connected to Koh Phangan by a single long stretch of golden white sand, on a perfect day Koh Ma boasts clear blue sea, colourful corals and a rich array of other marine life. It is easily possible to spend hours exploring the reef parallel to the beach and around the island. On the beachfront there are also several excellent restaurants and bungalows.

DIVE SITES

Koh Ma

Koh Ma is a small picturesque island connected to Koh Phangan by a sandbar at Haad Mae Haad on the north west coast. It is possible to beach dive from either Mae Haad or Koh Ma and several local scuba schools do trips by boat. That said, it is far from crowded and is an excellent place to see the local marine life, with schooling fish, bannerfish & big grouper, barracuda and a vast range of coral; maximum depth 24m.

Haad Salad, Haad Yao & Haad Chao Phao

These three beaches are all bordered by the long coral reef that thrives on the west coast of Phangan and runs up to Koh Ma. Any one of these beaches offers great beach and boat dives with a range of hard corals & reef fish; maximum depth 19m.

Koh Tae Nok

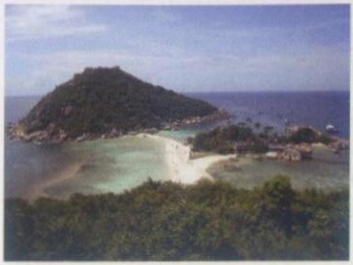

Koh Tae Nok is located near Thongsala on the south coast of Koh Phangan and is a great local boat dive; with reef fish, hard corals and the odd small reef shark; maximum depth 19m.

PHANGAN.INFO Travel Guide for Android™ PHANGAN .INFO GET IT ON Google play

Sail Rock

Sail Rock is undoubtedly the most famous dive site in the Gulf of Thailand and is located in-between Koh Phangan and Koh Tao. A spectacular rock formation that rises out of the sea, creating an excellent wall dive with a great range of marine life, spectacular underwater scenery, rock formations and the legendary "Chimney" swim-through! A fantastic site that can be explored by all levels of divers; maximum depth 40m.

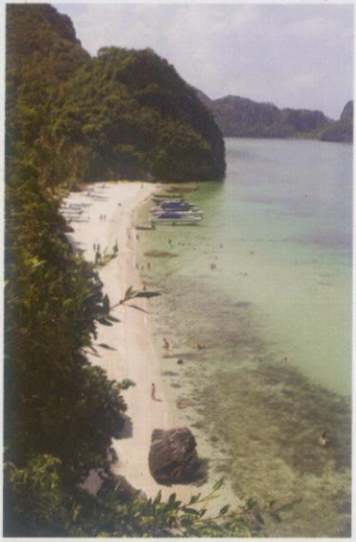

Koh Tao and Koh Nang Yuan

Koh Tao has loads of beach dive sites and two major dive sites; Shark Island nearby and Southwest Pinnacle about 15kms away. Both are exceptional sites with a great variety of reef fish and alluring rocky formations; maximum depth 32m.

For more information about Koh Nang Yuan and day trips to the island see page 116.

Ang Thong Marine Park

The Marine Park of Ang Thong consists of a string of about 42 islands and offers some of the most beautiful, vibrant, undamaged coral in Thailand. The boat trip takes about two hours to get to the northernmost tip of the Marine Park and Koh Ang Thong has the best range of fish within the Gulf of Siam. There is a good chance of seeing the rarer creatures such as turtles or seasnakes and the sites are also very scenic, featuring 2m giant hydroids and black corals; ideal not just for beginners but also for the more experienced diver; maximum depth 25m+.

There are several tour operators that run regular trips to Ang Thong Marine Park, for more information and a full review of Ang Thong check out page 114.

SNORKELLING

The west coast of the island is host to a rich and vibrant coral reef that stretches from Srithanu up to Koh Ma; and from any beach along this stretch an amazing underwater world of mesmerising corals and luminescent tropical fish is right at your fingertips. Good beaches are Haad Chao Phao, Haad Yao, Haad Salad, Mae Haad and Haad Khom (maps on page 154); although almost any beach will have something of interest, especially if you head to the rocky areas.

There is very little to be warned about as the Gulf does not harbour many sea-nasties, though look before you put your feet down and NEVER stand on coral as it kills thousands of years of growth instantly. Beware of strong currents, wear a t-shirt to stop your back burning....and enjoy.

If you are not on Koh Phangan too long or don't want arrange your own transport, an excellent way to visit the best snorkelling spots is by booking on an around-the-island boat trip. These organised boat trips run every day depending on the weather of course – if you have booked ahead only to

There are many good spots to enjoy a bit of snorkelling on Koh Phangan. The best area is all along the west coast, especially the following beaches:

Koh Ma (see p38)
Haad Chao Phao (see p152)
Haad Yao (see p154)
Haad Salad (see p154)
Haad Khom (see p156)

FULL MOON PARTY

WWW.PHANGAN.INFO

INTRODUCTION

The first Full Moon Party either went off in 1987 or 1988, no-one is really sure; and it was someone's birthday. It was such a good party that the same crew met up again at Paradise Bungalows and partied under the next Full Moon. From there on the party grew to be a mecca for travellers in the 90s and then became the global dance music festival that it is today, attracting thousands of visitors from every walk of life.

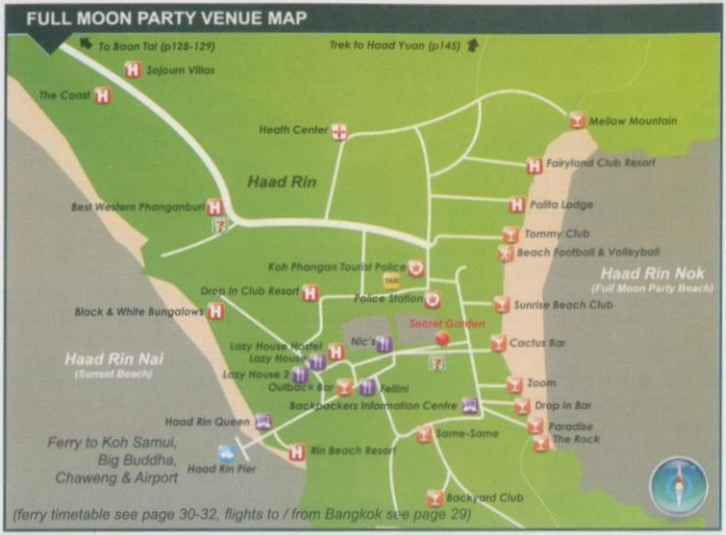

There are now over 10 major sound systems on the beach playing everything from psy-trance to drum and bass with each one representing a different genre. Crowd sizes vary from around 8,000 in low season getting up to 30,000 in the high season; and inline with the party's growing popularity, Haad Rin has been expanding to accommodate its guests. There are now over 5,000 rooms and hundreds of cool bars, boutiques, restaurants and of course the great nightlife. If you want to come and enjoy the party, consider booking a room on Koh Phangan as accommodation gets jammed well before the Full Moon date.

Note: ALL Party goers will need to pay 100 Baht per person entrance fee when arriving in Haad Rin for the Full Moon Party night.

(ferry timetable see page 30-32, flights to / from Bangkok see page 29)

VENUES

The Rock

The Rock is one of the best places on the beach to chill out and get a view of the whole party. It is situated at the southern end of Haad Rin on (you guessed it) a big rock. Expect soulful funky tunes mixed by DJ Kim and the best cocktails on the beach.

Paradise Bungalows

The home of the Original Full Moon Party, Paradise is still the biggest and best venue consistently putting on the largest show. If a big name is visiting the island, you will normally find them here playing alongside the amazing resident DJ A who has more or less coined the tough progressive sound of Haad Rin.

Drop In Bar

Drop In is another long runner that has been playing a more commercial set to the huge crowd that gathers there. It has loads of different places to chill out and watch the action including live fire shows and wild drinking games; playing chart, RnB, hip hop and dancefloor classics.

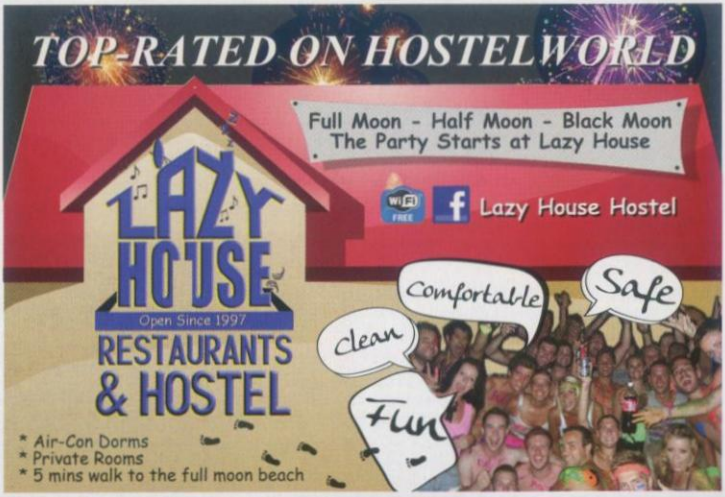

Zoom
Zoom is another psy-trance venue, a bit smaller and more intimate than the other clubs, but banging all the same. From sunset to sunrise the dancefloor is a blur of sand, fluoro paint and limbs and it often goes on all day after the party as well.

Cactus Bar
Cactus is one of the first places you come to as you enter Haad Rin Beach, its right in the middle so it gets a load of punters, especially as the sun comes up. Expect a more commercial sound with RnB, hip hop, old skool classics and even the odd bit of rock.

Sunrise Beach Club
Live DJs start playing 5 days before Full Moon, serving up Funky and Electro House, which alternates with a D&B, Jungle theme by the Orchid Club Jiving Tribe DJ team.

Tommy Club
Tommy's really does deliver the ultimate Full Moon experience. Big sound system, fire wall, whacky fluorescents, club lighting and it's own security purely for your safety. Locals DJ Ton and DJ Max play all your party faves between 9pm and 3am and then top International DJs Graham Gold (UK, Kiss 100) and Darragh Casey (Eire) bust out the latest Big Room and Tech House till 8am.

Mellow Mountain
If you want to get away from the mayhem, but still want to keep an eye on the action - Mellow Mountain is located at the quieter northern end of the beach. There are heaps of cushions and hammocks to chill out on, great milkshakes and soothing tunes to calm you down after a hard session dancing on the beach.

Same-Same
Warm up the evening with some live music at Same-Same Bar; the band play covers from Rock to Pop on a pro sound system to keep the crowds coming back for more.

Outback Bar
If you want to escape the pandemonium and hear some deep and funky house, head to the Outback near the main pier with its no-trance music policy. Check out the stunning décor, a brilliantly stocked bar and an excellent menu make this a popular choice.

Reggae House
Away from the main strip, tucked away just off Sunset Beach, you'll find Reggae House. Reggae House has something for everyone.....dub, reggae and ska music, cocktails, chillout hammocks, beanbag balcony and pool cave.

Backyard Club
The ultimate after party that starts up at 7am just as Haad Rin beach shuts down and grooves until 10pm. Some say it is the best part of the FMP with only dedicated mooners mashing it up on the dance floor and the best of the previous nights DJs on the decks; including the infallible residents DJ A and DJ Boyonic.

OTHER PARTIES

The party vibe has got into the islanders blood and there are several other venues around Koh Phangan that are staged to go off in different areas so as not to disturb one locality. All are outdoor parties and a lot of effort goes into making each one a unique party experience that only Koh Phangan could give.

Half Moon Festival, Baan Tai (p55)
The Half Moon Festival goes off twice a month and it's a massive event. It happens a week before and a week after the Full Moon Party (FMP) in a brilliantly decked out Baan Tai jungle. Starting with chill-in music at 9pm (Spacebrother or Moscowfish) featuring saxophone by Timjorn Cook. At 10.15pm DJ BOYONIC opens the main floor. TRIPICAL (All Records) normally drops his beats at 1am. Special guests, world famous DJs and music producers perform live acts on occasion. Ticket price 600 Baht includes FREE Audio CD and welcome drink. Check facebook.com/HALFMOON.FEST.

2013 Dates: September 13th and 27th, October 11th and 27th, November 9th and 25th, December 9th and 24th.

Check the website for updated information: www.halfmoonfestival.com or www.fullmoon.phangan.info.

Black Moon Culture, Baan Tai (right)
Since 1999 Magic Phangan has been hosting the monthly Black Moon Culture. It has become one of the island's top outdoor parties, with amazing décor on the super sandy Baan Tai beach. Pumping out progressive and underground trance sounds by an international DJ line-up.

2013/2014 Dates: 4th September, 4th October, 2nd November, 2nd December, 28th December, 30th January.

Also, check the website www.blackmoon-culture.com or www.fullmoon.phangan.info for current information.

Driving Safety

DON'T DRINK AND DRIVE

If you go to a party on Koh Phangan take a taxi there and back. The roads around the island are hard to navigate with many dangerous unexpected obstacles.

Drunk or inexperienced drivers should never attempt to drive, especially after partying all night. The taxi's are cheap and effective; and best of all the drivers work on shifts and stay sober.

Nightlife

Koh Phangan has a varied night scene; the monthly moon parties draw the crowds, while themed bars and pubs offer a calmer venue to warm up. More laid back still are the many funky beachfront lounge bars dotted around the island. Popular hangouts include the main road from Thongsala and Baan Tai - better known as "The Strip" - and of course the party mecca of Haad Rin.

Bold and brash, Haad Rin is the place to party after hours. Packed with drinking dens and pumping clubs that line the beachfront. Meanwhile several bars back on "The Strip" have upped the ante and now feature live music and international DJs. Keep your eyes peeled for flyers that hype the best events.

Drop In Club Pool/Foam Party (p02)
Haad Rin
Every month 3 days before Full Moon is the biggest most crazy pool party inside Haad Rin town. Drop In Club Resort is the perfect venue; tons of balconies and dancing zones centered around a cascading pool. FREE warm-up barbecue. Keep an eye out for the Foam Parties splashing off throughout the month and the Full Moon frenzy.

Pirate Bar - Moon Set Party (map p152)
The Moon Set Party is usually 3 days before and after FMP and is situated in a small cove at the south end of Haad Chao Phao. The setting is amazing with a backdrop of shear rock cliffs and DJs set in the rocks.

Bay Lounge, Ao Hin Lor (p54)
www.baylounge.com
Every Half Moon and Full Moon join the Sun Dance Day Party at the Bay Lounge in between Baan Tai and Haad Rin. Pool side dance floor, chill out lounge and cocktails bar on private beach. The party starts at 3pm until midnight and features live mixing by DJ Boyonic + special guest djs.

Secret Garden Party, Haad Rin (map p51)
In the heart of Haad Rin town, there is a Secret Garden with a soft dance floor, a comfortable chill out and a high quality sound system, where locals and international DJ's like come to play their last set of sexy Deep House, Funky Breakbeat, Progressive or Dubstep. Twice a month on Thursday. Information Facebook: kawee kophangan.

Loi Lay, Baan Tai (map p128)
Every Sunday Loi Lay presents The Boat Party on the island's only floating bar. Deep, funky and tech house music with guest and local DJ's from 9pm. Great selection of classic and speciality cocktails served all night. A popular spot among locals, expats and tourists. Check Facebook for weekly line up.

RESTAURANT & BARS

WWW.PHANGAN.INFO

INTRODUCTION

Cheap Eats

Thongsala (see page 124) is the main Thai market town so it's a great place to find some stalls cooking authentic Thai food. There are plenty of "Chicken and Rice" restaurants offering all the local favourites and another popluar dish is "Som Tam" - or Papaya Salad - see how spicy you can eat it! Expect to pay no more than 50 Baht per dish.

Koh Phangan has an excellent choice of restaurants, for many people eating out and about is the highlight of their stay on the island. Many bars now also stock premium imported booze both bottled and on draught.

Thongsala has traditional Thai seafood restaurants, curry stalls and good quality street food; a multitude of Western restaurants such as Italian, English, Mexican, French and Japanese. Most are either at the main crossroads (100m up from the round about) or on the seafront, the markets around the 7-11 convenience store have some of the best street food. Walk around to explore some coffee shop culture and find several bakeries and vegetarian cafés. See page 124 for a map of Thongsala.

Not to be missed, there are a cluster of traditional seafood restaurants around the port at Baan Tai (see map page 128), funky bars, coffee shops and an Italian pizza house all within easy walking distance.

Haad Rin offers the most cosmopolitan mix of restaurants on Koh Phangan, with a vast choice of different tastes all within walking distance of each other. There are beachfront seafood BBQs, Italian, Mexican, Israeli, Scandinavian, Moroccan, Mediterranean, Tapas, Indian, lounge bars, cafés and many more varieties as well as traditional Thai restaurants and street stalls. Just wander around the town and head for what you fancy. See page 140 for a map of Haad Rin.

Looking for fresh seafood? Chaloklum village is Koh Phangan's main fishing port and has a wealth of inexpensive seafood restaurants serving fresh delicacies such as locally caught squid. Most of the restaurants are lined along the seafront, overlooking the pier and fishing boats, where you can watch the daily catch being bought in. See page 156 for map.

On the west coast, Srithanu village (see page 152) is a quaint and interesting place with quite a lot going on. There are several bars and great value Thai restaurants, a popular Italian diner and some excellent beachfront spots worth checking out, as well as a fresh produce market and food area that is located at the main crossroads.

SHOPPING

WWW.PHANGAN.INFO

INTRODUCTION

Koh Phangan has long attracted an artistic element, which is reflected by the surprising number of art galleries, local crafts, hand painted batik (sarongs, hammocks, bed spreads etc.), handmade leather and handmade jewellery shops that you will bump into whilst window shopping. In truth, Koh Phangan is a great place to purchase high quality unique handmade products and the relative small size of the island means that you won't have to walk far to find something of interest.

Other items that will be a bargain compared to overpriced shopping malls in Bangkok and other Western countries include clothing, beach towels, flip flops, snorkelling equipment, musical instruments and jewellery items. It is especially useful to buy all your beach wear on Koh Phangan, such as bikinis, shorts, t-shirts and sarongs - you will save a small fortune! For book lovers there are also plenty of second hand book shops willing to trade in your oldies. Thailand is also famous for cheap movies and games; there are plenty of market stalls filled with all the latest releases for the keen eye.

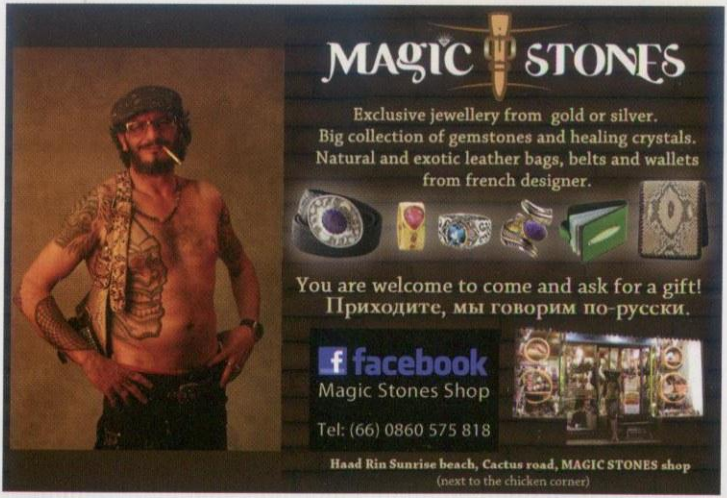

So where can you find all these bargains? Well, Thongsala (see map on page 124) is the island's main trading post with an excellent variety of crafts, jewellery, clothes, artwork and traditional Thai items. There are a great number of boutique shops throughout the town and numerous supermarkets and fresh produce stalls. Most shops are open till 8 or 9 in the evening. The other place worth shopping is Haad Rin (see map on page 140) with shops spead throughout the town running from the sunrise beach all the way to the pier and often open until a lot later in the evening.

Moreover, you will find that prices are reasonable and are often hard to beat, even compared to Bangkok, there are also many outlets supplying goods in bulk for export.

Each Saturday Taladkao Road (map on page 124) in Thongsala springs to life with its weekly walking market. Vendors from across the island come to tout their wares that range from gourmet goodies, funky beach clothes, accessories and ethnic handicrafts.

With something for everyone, visitors can stock up on souvenirs or better still sample the best of local cuisine. Mouth watering treats include fresh sushi, spicy seafood salads and curries of every colour. When tired of the hustle and bustle, kick back with a beer at one of the surrounding bars and restaurants. The market is open from 4pm 'til late.

HEALTHY LIVING

WWW.PHANGAN.INFO

INTRODUCTION

Koh Phangan has always been a place for relaxation and reflection. The tradition is a part of the island's history as the island has previously attracted many people interested in the healing and spiritual arts, with numerous temples testament to this. While Koh Phangan is yet to have many spa resorts on the scale of our sister island Koh Samui; there are plenty of retreat centres, meditation schools and secret hideaways where one can find peace and space for learning in harmony with nature.

Wat Pho Herbal Sauna (see map p129)
Baan Tai

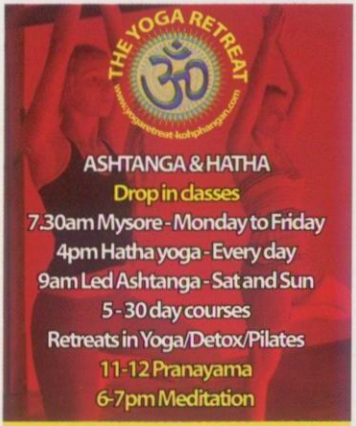

The herbal sauna is open every day 3pm-7pm and runs on donations - the sauna uses traditional methods by heating natural herbs such as lemongrass on a log fire. Nearby you'll also find the biggest tree on Koh Phangan, an amazing site of nature.

Why so popular?

Compared to other popular travel spots, Koh Phangan is still very cheap for all sorts of health and spa related activities. Combine this with pristine beaches (that are almost empty during low season) and acres of untouched tropical rainforest and visitors to Koh Phangan can truly feel that they can get back to nature.

Whatever the goal - it could be to practice yoga, complete a meditation retreat or take part in a cleansing detox program - Koh Phangan keeps attracting people from all walks of life seeking that moment of peace to recharge their batteries and find some spiritual nourishment along the way.

ADVENTURE & ACTIVITIES

WWW.PHANGAN.INFO

INTRODUCTION

Koh Phangan is full of outdoor adventure and most of it can be done on a few Baht. Rich coral reefs run along the north-west coast of the island, supporting a vibrant underwater world making it an excellent place to snorkel and one of the cheapest and least-crowded places to dive in Thailand. There are fishing trips, around the island boat trips and loads of watersports on offer including kayaks, catamarans and fishing.

The island has acres of rich undisturbed tropical rainforest and a wild jungle interior. There are overnight mountain treks to the top of Khao Ra and coastline walks making it possible to beach hop round the whole island. You can find some amazing viewpoints from the mountains and several waterfalls, with some enticing enough to bring Thai Royal visitors.

There are also several Thai boxing schools, gyms and Thai boxing stadiums in both Thongsala and Haad Rin. Koh Phangan is great for cycling around and if you are an experienced motorcyclist it offers some fun rides. There are loads of temples to visit, spa and meditation retreats and it's also a pretty good place to do nothing at all!

BOAT TRIPS

Easy to organise and perfect for those not planning to stay very long on Koh Phangan or just want to take a quick look around the island before deciding where to stay on longer. Boat trips can be arranged at most resorts and will leave late morning. Common itineraries for pre-arranged tours include Thaan Sadet waterfall, Thong Nai Pan, Haad Khuat (Bottle Beach), Koh Ma and Koh Tae Nok. If you are in a group, it is also possible to rent the boat for a day and arrange your own itinerary, but expect to pay a lot more. The boat will either be a traditional longtail or speedboat which will probably be able to take you further afield such as the Marine Park or Koh Tao.

Any deal should include lunch and other essential supplies. Be aware of the sun and wear a hat and a healthy layer of sun lotion or risk feeling the affects of heatstoke later on as most trips leave about mid-day. All organised boat trips run every day depending on the weather of course – if you have booked ahead only to find that it is wet and windy you will receive a full refund.

Itsaramai is a beautiful 20m wooden yacht often sailing to Ang Thong Marine Park, an amazing small tropical paradise of more than 40 islands. Enjoy the high sea life off the beaten track, with an overnight 2 day cruise to let you discover the jewels in the Gulf of Thailand away from the crowd. White sand remote beaches, hidden lagoons, limestone caves, snorkelling, kayaking, and after the sunset try fishing squid before an unforgettable star lighted night. All cruises include insurance, entrance fees, equipment, food and drinks (not alcoholic drinks). Also available as a private charter for 4 to 6 passengers, any destination you choose, 2 or more days. Spoken languages include English, French and Thai.

www.phanganboattrips.com
Orion Boat Trips offer cruises to Ang Thong National Marine Park (see page 114 for full review) to see some of Thailand's most hidden treasures. With plenty of outside space and shade, this wooden cruiser offers a unique all day adventure, complete with light breakfast, buffet lunch, snacks and soft drinks, fruit and snorkelling equipment. Prices are 1,800 Baht per person or 2,000 Baht with kayaks, and includes all the marine park entrance fees. Orion departs to Ang Thong every Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday and is also available for private charter.

SCUBA DIVING & SNORKELLING

Koh Phangan is an excellent place to explore the underwater world. There is vibrant coral reef around the West and Northern coast perfect for snorkelling and learning to dive, while some of Thailand's premier dive sites are only a short boat journey away. See page 34 for full review.

SAILING AND WINDSURFING

There are a few places offering sailing trips and tuition, with one operation providing Hobie style Catamarans and Lazer sailing boats, available all year at Baan Tai and Ao Nai Wok beaches; ideal for learning or an exhilarating ride for the experienced sailor. Windsurfing is also becoming more popular and there are several schools and rental agencies on the island.

SL2K Adventure, Ao Nai Wok (above)
www.sl2kadventure.com
SL2K Adventure offers a range of activities; paddle board, sailing, windsurfing (courses from beginner to advanced, day trip, trek or rental equipment) and active holiday (bicycle, kayaking, snorkelling and hiking trips). The activities can be adjusted for all levels between 6 to 99 year old!

KAYAKING

Kayaks are available for hire on most beaches for Bt100 to Bt150 per hour. The obvious precautions should be observed such as covering your skin from the hot sun, allowing enough time for long trips (sunset rides are not advised) and taking water to drink. Also be aware of the currents and tidal drift, it can be easy to go in one direction and very difficult to come back.

The west coast from Wok Tum to Koh Ma offers some of the calmest seas and best beach hopping possibilities though if the seas aren't choppy, pretty much anywhere is good. Other popular routes are between Thong Nai Pan and Haad Khuat (Bottle Beach) and also from Chaloklum to Haad Khuat; or from Haad Rin it is easily possible to make it around to Haad Khontee and further on to Haad Thian and Haad Yuan - but don't depart too late in the day.

www.kiteboardingasia.com

Kiteboarding Asia (KBA) is the only IKO School (International Kiteboarding Organization) in Thailand, and hosts a shop with the biggest selection of kites and boards to buy or rent in Asia. KBA is the biggest certified IKO center in Asia with 8 locations in Thailand to assure you the best teaching depending on time, wind strength and direction. The KBA center on Koh Phangan is located 100 meters from Hard Road Café & Villa and opposite PTT gas station at Baan Tai (see map on page 128). KBA will teach at different beaches all throughout the year to be in the best teaching area depending on wind conditions. During low tides, KBA can provide landboarding by kite such as kiteskating and buggy courses.

KBA is the only kite school on the island with IKO certified instructors.

Laem Son Lake, 08 9730 0081
Phangan Wipeout is the new and legendary adventure obstacle course on water. Test your skills and see how quickly you can complete the tricky and exhilarating course. Comprising of rope swing, trampolines, climbing wall, rolling barrels and many more. Beat the clock and earn yourself a place in the Phangan Wipeout leaderboard wall of fame! After the workout take a break and fill up in the Lake Hut restaurant (see page 67). Happy Hour every day between 5pm and 7pm.

FISHING

Fishing can usually be organised through your resort and is often a short trip in a longtail boat out to a few local fishing spots. The normal equipment is a handline on a basic trip, so if you are looking for something a bit more high-tech ask around or go to a travel agent. There are plenty of operations with good rods and equipment and if you are willing to travel to the best spots and night fish, you may net a 20kg Mackerel or a 10kg Barracuda. If organised at a resort it should also be possible to have a BBQ on the beach in the evening.

Fishing off the rocks on the coast can also bring a good catch; just ask a local where to set up - be warned it is illegal to go fishing in the marine rich waters around Koh Ma. Don't forget to cover your skin, bring enough water to drink and take care of the coral.

If you fancy a good laugh, then head up to Chaloklum (see page 156) for a spot of squid fishing. Chaloklum is well-known throughout the area as an excellent source of squid. If you look out to sea after dark you will almost certainly see the bright lights from the squid boats shining in the distance. If you are interested in trying it out just ask some of the local people for more details.

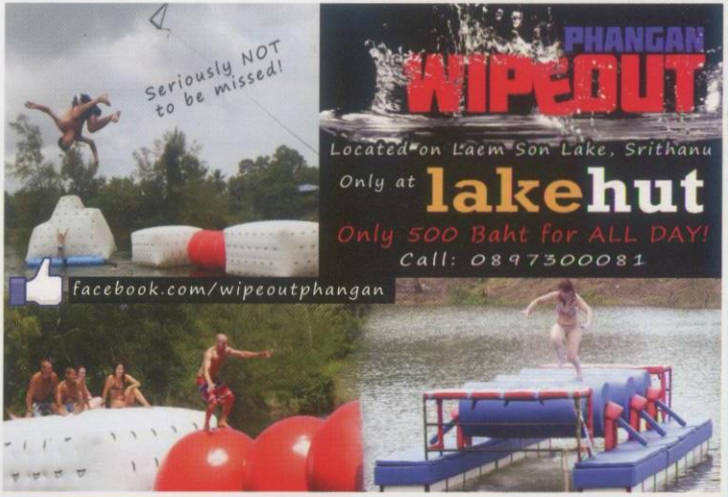

MOUNTAIN BIKING

Bikes can be hired in most towns and villages, just ask around; the quality varies but there are some reasonable machines out there. If you are staying long term there are several shops in Koh Phangan that stock authentic bikes and they can usually be sold on before you go home. Prices range between Bt100 to Bt150 per day (prices are negotiable on monthly rentals).

Apart from Baan Khai to Thongsala and on to Haad Yao, the island is predominantly hilly, thus be prepared for a work out if you cycle elsewhere. Always remember take plenty of water, head wear (helmet advised – the hills give you a lot of speed) and sun-cream.

There are no official tracks, though that can only be a matter of time, but any non-concrete road in the hilly areas is a good ride, especially the Thong Nai Pan and Thaan Sadet roads. Otherwise there are loads of trails to discover, just get those wheels rolling.

SHOOTING RANGE

Haad Rin, 08 0328 5555
The first shooting range in Koh Phangan, fully equipped with a variety of firearms and bullet sizes to suit all your Hollywood desires, whether it is pistols or revolvers, rifles or shotguns. All our staff are fully equipped with safety and equipment knowledge, where you can rest assure that you are in the safest and most professional hands.

THAI BOXING (MUAY THAI)

Koh Phangan, like the rest of Thailand, loves its Thai Boxing; there are four stadiums in Thongsala (see page 124), Three stadiums in Baan Tai (see page 128-129) and two in Haad Rin (page 140) so you'll easily be able to catch a fight during your stay.

There are usually about six fights a night with local and visiting Thai fighters and a few Farang (foreigners). To find out when the next big night is, try and decipher what one of the pick-ups with really tinny speakers is saying, look out for the posters or ask around. Price on the door is usually Bt650.

If you want to learn the noble art, there are a few good schools on the island with English speaking tuition and some very good facilities.

FC FARANG FOOTBALL

FC FARANG is a social football club made up of expats and islanders alike, who meet up 3 times a week; Monday, Thursday and Saturday from 4:30pm onwards. Playing at either Baan Tai High School (see map p128) or Maduawan School (see map p120) depending on pitch conditions. A 50 Baht contribution is asked for at every training session which goes towards the daily operation of the club.

Check out www.fc-farang.com or call our phone on 08 5654 8399 if you feel like joining us for a kick about. ALL WELCOME!

TREKKING

Many parts of Koh Phangan are still untouched, which makes it perfect for trekking and camping. Most trekking routes are along the eastern coastline that link up peaceful coves and beaches, although there are also some fun treks in the jungle interior around the tallest mountain Khao Ra and Phaeng Waterfall National Park.

WARNING: Please remember that it is easy to become lost, so if you are inexperienced please don't trek alone. Local guides can be found at Phaeng Waterfall National Park (Tel: 077 238275) - expect to pay about 500 Baht per day. If trekking alone or without a guide remember to take plenty of supplies, especially water and some high energy food.

Khao Ra (see opposite)
Central
The highest peak on Koh Phangan, Khao Ra stands at 630m and offers a fantastic viewpoint overlooking Chaloklum and Thong Nai Pan for those willing to climb to the top. On a good day with clear visibility you can see Koh Tao. The route is not too strenuous, but the path can be difficult to follow at times.

Phaeng Waterfall National Park
South West
The waterfall itself is a good attraction to visit, but walk further and there are many easy to follow paths leading up the mountain to an excellent viewpoint. Upon reaching the top there is still another longer well-marked trek for those who want to explore further.

Bottle Beach (see page 157)
North West
Easy to trek in about 2 hours, leaving from the western end of Chaloklum follow the dirt-track around to Haad Khom (which also has excellent snorkelling) and then becomes a narrower winding path sharply uphill and onto Bottle Beach.

Haad Yuan & Haad Thian (see page 145)
South East
A popular trek from Haad Rin that takes approximately 2 hours. The first part is hard-going, but once at the top of the mountain there are beautiful views over Haad Rin and beyond to Koh Samui. After this, follow the "green dots" along the mountain plateau which will eventually descend to the beach Haad Yuan. Only a little further is Haad Thian. Cheap bungalows are available on both beaches for an overnight stay.

LEAM SON LAKE

Laem Son Lake is a popular place to cool off during the hot months and relax under shady pine trees; there are a few rope swings for high diving into the lake and Phangan Wipeout (see page 103) adventure course. If you do decide to swim be careful; only strong swimmers should attempt to swim across the lake and the rope line across the lake is only a guide, not a safety rope; Laem Son is also a protected area - so no fishing allowed.

What to bring:
At least 1.5 litres of water per person
Packed lunch or fruit snacks to eat on top
Jungle formula mosquito repellent
Sun cream, small towel and hat
Good walking shoes
Camera

Climbing Khao Ra brings spectacular panoramic views over Chaloklum and south west Koh Phangan. On a clear day you can see the mainland, Koh Samui, Ang Thong Marine Park and Koh Tao.

Directions: 1.5km from the main ring road to Chaloklum, turn right at Khao Ra Bungalows sign and continue 300m down a dirt road track until you reach the entrance to the bungalows then turn left up a smaller track heading uphill to reach the reservoir after about another 400m. Cross the bridge over reservoir and follow the painted "Khao Ra 2km" sign up into the jungle canopy. The path is wide and marked along the way making it easy to follow. On the way back down drop by the restaurant at Khao Ra Bungalows for a cool drink and some chill time in the hammocks.

Warnings: Not suitable for small children due to steep climb and remoteness. Start early to avoid the heat and give plenty of time to make it back before dark. Allow around 2 hours to get to the top and another 1½ hours back down. Always inform a friend or the hotel staff before you leave.

WATERFALLS

Phaeng Waterfall (South West)
One of the island's grandest waterfalls is a steep 250m walk up a jungle trail, but once there it is quite an impressive fall. Walk a further 200m up the path and it brings you to a fantastic mountaintop viewpoint. Nearby, there is also a long winding foot trail that leads up the mountain Khao Ra peak and viewpoint (see page 107).

Wang Sai (North East)
Wang Sai waterfall is situated on the north-west coast of the island near Mae Haad. It flows best after heavy rains and has a number of pools to cool off in. It certainly isn't the biggest waterfall on Koh Phangan, but it's a beautiful stretch of fresh water in a lovely spot. See the map on page 154.

Thaan Prawet (North East)
Thaan Prawet is another long scenic series of waterfalls that can either be accessed from Thong Nai Pan Noi beach or from the main road above the bay. It runs for about 2kms and is quite a hard climb further upstream, though there are some great places to chill from the very start of the falls.

Thaan Sadet (North East)
Thaan Sadet waterfall was first visited by Thai Royalty in 1888 when King Rama V left an inscription on a rock that remains today; he revisited the same spot more than 10 times. The present King Bhumibol has also been to this sacred series of falls, where the river waters are used in certain Royal Ceremonies that obtain water from only a few sources around Thailand. It is a fairy tale of huge granite boulders and multitudes of fresh water pools and can be walked its full length of 3kms. The falls are more like huge stepping stones and can be approached from numerous places; either from the magnificent beach of Haad Thaan Sadet or on the road into Thaan Sadet (beware; only experienced motorcyclists should attempt the Thaan Sadet road, otherwise take a boat, taxi or hire a jeep). See the map opposite.

No Water

If you are visiting any of the local waterfalls remember that most will normally run dry from March to June. Only Thaan Sadet (see above) will be guaranteed to have water all year. The reason is the heavy rains tend to be during November and December making waterfalls most spectacular up until late February.

At Phaeng waterfall (see below) there are plenty of nature trails worth exploring and you will often come across smaller pools suitable for bathing even during the dry season. There are several viewpoints further up the mountain which makes the trip even more worthwhile. Always stay near the footpaths to make sure you don't get lost.

TEMPLES

There are more than 20 temples around the island and all welcome well behaved visitors. Not only are they great historical and spiritual places, but they are also at the centre of the Thai community and often have temple fairs with dancing, singing, markets and stalls.

When visiting temples, please respect the Buddhist and Thai culture; always wear a shirt that covers your shoulders, shorts are ok but not too short, no shoes or headwear in the temples and never point your feet at any Thais, especially a Monk (sit cross legged or make a kind of "sitting kneel" with your legs under you and your feet pointing to away from the monks; never touch a Thai on the head either). Women cannot touch the monks, so if you wish to pass anything, do it via a male friend or put it next to the monk with your right hand.

Chinese Temple (North West)
The Chinese Temple exists today because of the faith of Mrs Malawan. In 1990, when Koh Phangan was still largely without electricity, Mrs Malawan came to Sangthom Temple on Koh Phangan for a ceremony of presenting the robes to the priests. During one night, sleeping outside with friends, Mrs Malawan dreamt about the Chinese Buddha, Jaomae Kuanim. The Buddha told her to build a firelight for the people. Mrs Malawan then returned to Bangkok to raise the funds and building was completed in 1992 (open from 8.00am to 5.00pm).

Wat Phu Khao Noi (South West)
Wat Phu Khao Noi is the oldest temple on Koh Phangan and is situated on top of a hill just outside Thongsala near the hospital. It has some very interesting ancient buildings and Chedis, as well as amazing views over the island and beyond. The head monk there also speaks a bit of English; it's worth noting that the monks are only really around in the morning, though you can still visit until late in the afternoon.

Jade Buddha (Central)
Near the entrance to Phaeng Waterfall, the Jade Buddha can be found on top of a small hill in the temple grounds.

Wat Khao Tam (South West)
Wat Khao Tam is a great viewpoint in Baan Tai, easily accessible on a moped; as are many of the sunset bars on the Nai Wok hillside. Haad Rin has viewpoints at either side of Haad Rin Nok and on the road out of Haad Rin. But in fact there are viewpoints pretty much anywhere on the island, just stop for a minute to appreciate it.

Wat Pho (South West)
Wat Pho is located at the start (and level section) of the Baan Tai to Thong Nai Pan road where the monks operate a traditional herbal steam sauna. Natural herbs such as lemongrass and other Asian remedies are heated by a log wood fire, creating steam that is filtered into the sauna. The herbal system has many health benefits from helping to reduce high cholesterol levels to improving skin conditions such as dry skin and eczema (open from 3-6pm).

BEACH FOOTBALL

The Full Moon Beach Soccer Cup has been organising tournaments on Haad Rin Beach opposite Tommy Resort now for 5 years and it has gained an enormous following; with numerous local and guest teams competing in front of big crowds over the four day duration of each monthly tournament. Each team consists of a minimum of 6 and up to 11 players, with 5 on the pitch and the remainder in reserve. Everyone is welcome to enter the event, which finishes before the Full Moon Party kicks off; and with time to sign in from 12pm, games starting at 2pm and finishing at sunset; it's got a hangover friendly format!

One of the reasons for the Cup's great popularity is that if you don't have a team, they will help organise one for individual players or smaller groups. All interested parties should contact Mr Heinz during the first three days of the tournament. It's also a fully international affair and a great spectator event for those who prefer the terraces; with high quality goods and gifts from the sponsors and cash prizes for winners!

BEACH VOLLEYBALL

Every month running parallel with the Full Moon Beach Soccer Cup, Koh Phangan welcomes 3 days of sun soaked Beach Volleyball heaven. Everyone can join the Beach Volleyball Festival 2 on 2 competition - International Beach Volleyball rules - fun competition, not serious, anyone can do it! BIG prize money for the winners. Final games under flood light in the evening.

ANG THONG MARINE PARK TRIPS

Ang Thong is a true natural wonder unique to the Gulf of Thailand; consisting of over 42 individual islands and easily reached from Koh Phangan by speedboat or cruiser it is a popular destination for travellers looking to explore this magical place. A few of the highlights include:

Viewpoint on Wua Ta Lap

Wua Ta Lap is the Marine Park Headquarters and consists of an open area with information centre, restaurant and a few modern bungalows. It is a steep climb to the viewpoint and lots of water and shoes are definitely recommended - the hard walk will will be rewarded by some stunning views.

Camping on Koh Mae Ko

There are only a few beaches in the Marine Park that tourists are allowed to camp and faciltilies are actually provided on request - swing in the hammock under the stars with a warming camp fire and BBQ in the evening. Call direct for bungalow reservations on 025 620760 or to arrange a tent 077 286588.

Inner Sea (Emerald Lake)

Don't miss the famous saltwater Emerald Lake. Hidden from view and accessed by a narrow pathway, it is a natural wonder. No swimming allowed.

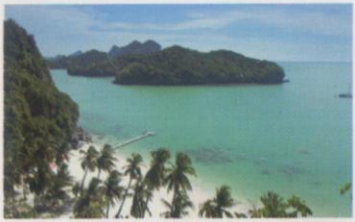

There are several companies that can arrange trips to the marine park, some will do a standard 1-day trip which includes visiting a few attractions, lunch break and a bit of snorkelling. For those that want more adventure it is possible to stay overnight at the marine park in basic accommodation. All tour packages should include the entrance fee of 200 Baht per person.

Orion Boat Trips, Thongsala (p99)

KOH NANG YUAN DAY TRIP

Koh Nang Yuan is a unique island paradise that is both a haven for marine life and an eco-resort, allowing visitors to stay on one of the three islands that make the place one of the wonders of South East Asia. Located off the coast of Koh Tao, the ocean's currents have interacted with the three peaks to form sandbars that link each island.

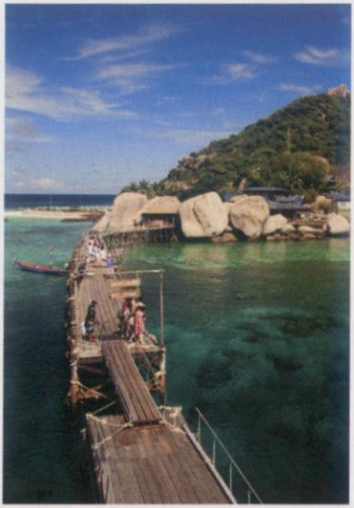

In the waters that surround the islands an incredibly diverse array of tropical marine life form an underwater paradise that is vibrant with colour from corals and fish alike. It is a fantastic place to snorkel and dive, but can get a little corded at peak times in high season.

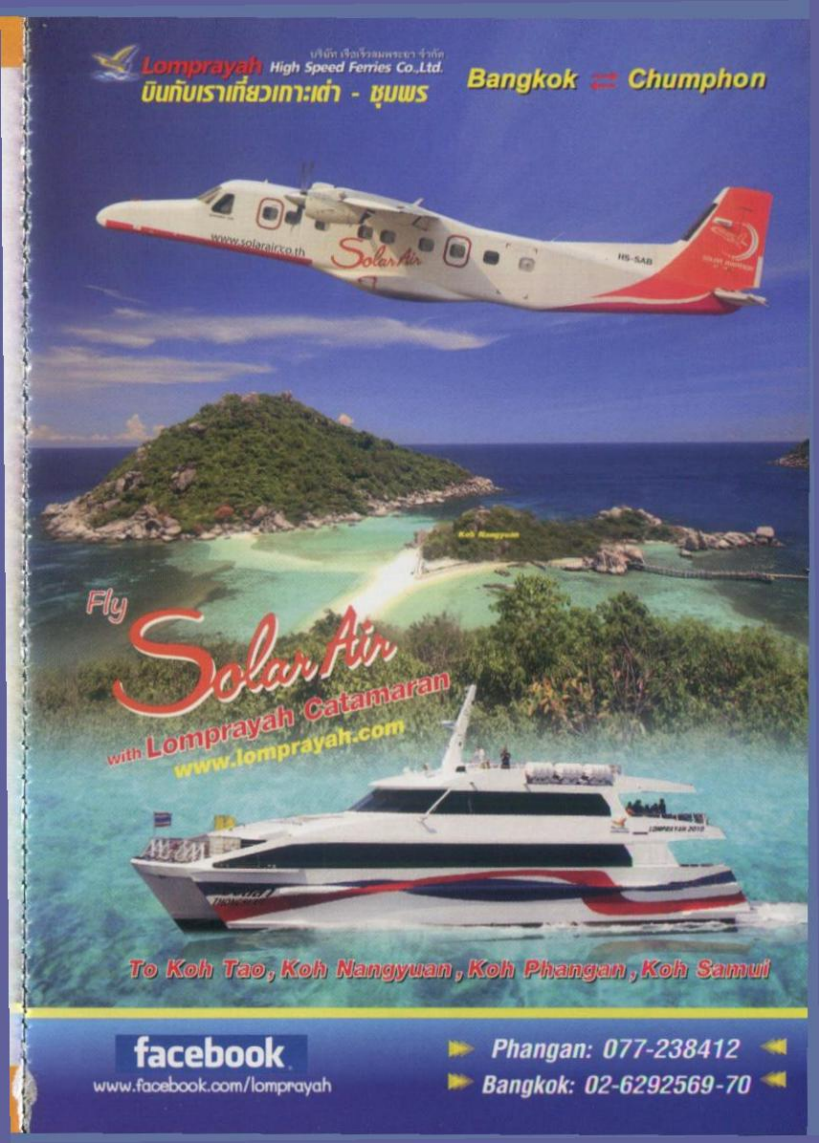

All visitors to the island are asked to refrain from bringing plastic bottles, cans and other non eco-friendly items with them and are also expected to respect the pristine environment. Do not stand on the corals, take any shells or corals from the beach or feed the marine life.

Visitors can either spend the day at the islands on one of the high quality tours that come to Nang Yuan daily; or alternatively they can stay at the luxurious resort that makes the most of the amazing geography, dividing the site into three budgets based on which island you are staying on.

Lomprayah Day Trip (right)
077 427765 or 077 427766

The efficient, friendly, high tech and high speed Lomprayah Catamaran crew run a good value day trip to Koh Nang Yuan and the best snorkelling sites around Koh Tao. GUIDE TO SOUTH WEST

WWW.PHANGAN.INFO

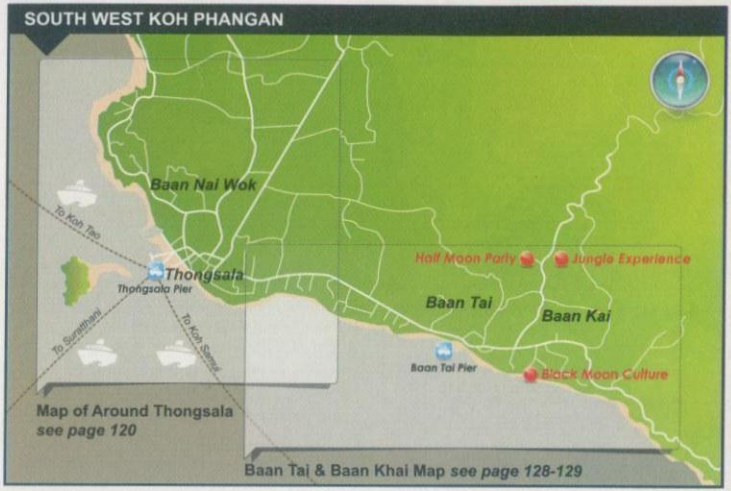

INTRODUCTION

The south west of Koh Phangan is the island's biggest lowland area and was the earliest settled with the first main town in Wok Tum, not far from Thongsala where it is now. The inland areas are a melting point of rivers and streams that spring from the surrounding mountains and the fertile plains are home to many small villages.

Thongsala became the island's capital around a hundred years ago and serves as Koh Phangan's main communication, services and transport centre. It has the islands main banking services, an excellent variety of cosmopolitan restaurants and some good bars. The shopping in Thongsala tends to be better value than neighbouring islands, where most shops have low fixed prices and there are also some good boutiques with interesting and unique clothes and crafts. Internet and telephone services are cheap, the main Post Office and Police Station are here and Thongsala has no less than three fresh markets, several decent supermarkets including Tesco Lotus, and more than ten ATM machines. The road network of the island meets in Thongsala, thus it provides easy access to virtually any point on Koh Phangan, by land or sea. It is the main taxi pick-up point and it has numerous guesthouses and two hotels, useful for overnight stays to meet travel connections.

The coastline takes on two different personas either side of Koh Tae Nok and Koh Tae Nai, the islands in front of Thongsala. Up the coast, starting at the northern end of Ao Nai Wok, there are steep hills and rounded volcanic boulders around the south-west's only mountain, Khao Hin Nok. The coast is broken up by rocky outcrops and the odd cluster of mangroves, with small coves and idyllic views over Ang Thong Marine Park.

South of Thongsala, the coastline is a lot straighter with an unbroken stretch of sand all the way up to the start of the Haad Rin hills. The surrounding flat land has all been used for coconut farming and long stretches of beach allow for a decent amount of space between the resorts, many offering high standards of accommodation.

AROUND THONGSALA

Fight Night

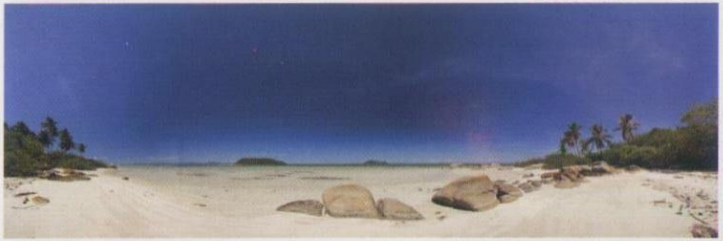

Thongsala & Baan Tai are the main venue for popular Thai Kick Boxing events, with no less than 6 stadiums! Expect the stadium to be full on the night, so arrive early and grab a snack at a local restaurant before sitting back to enjoy the fight. For more information on Thai Boxing see page 104.

Heading north from Thongsala and sticking to the coast; the hills of Khao Nai Wok offer the perfect place to watch the sunset over the islands of Ang Thong Marine Park; there are some great hillside bars as well as resort beach bars. Accommodation here is typically good value, with some great old skool resorts and a few high end luxury places.

The area immediately above Thongsala is close to the area first settled on the island. Wat Phu Khao Noi has temple remains over 400 years old and impressive ocean views and there are numerous traditional Thai homesteads along the old plantation roads. Some of the locality's best bars and restaurants are to be found on the roads leading to Thongsala and the island's municipal centre, hospital and police headquarters are also located here.

On the main road south of Thongsala going to Baan Tai, there are several good bars and a variety of restaurants serving Mexican, French, Italian, Indian, Thai and numerous other food styles. Along the coast of Ao Bang Charu there is also a great variety of resorts, with several low budget places with great value rooms and some nice mid to high end places that also tend to be soft on the pocket.

THONGSALA

Thongsala is the principal town for the island and is home to all the main services and travel connections. There is also a great choice of shops, bars and restaurants so it's worth visiting both in the day or the evening; there are also plenty travel shops offering tours and activities.

Services

There are several banks in Thongsala, with five on the main street and two on the Post Office road; and there are also several money exchange windows, all with ATMs. The hospital is only 4km away and a few private health clinics in the town, there are also numerous pharmacies; Koh Phangan's Police Headquarters is on the Chaloklum road, 1km outside Thongsala. The main ferry port is also in Thongsala and all of the ferry operators have offices on the jetties.

Restaurants

There is an excellent choice of restaurants in the south west, especially in Thongsala; with traditional Thai seafood restaurants, curry stalls and good quality street food; a multitude of Western restaurants such as Italian, English, French, Greek and Japanese. Most are either at the main crossroads (100m up from the round about) or on the seafront, the markets around the 7-11 convenience store have some of the best street food.

Entertainment

The south west has a great number of activities and things to keep you occupied; there are several dive operations based in Thongsala and numerous marine tour and fishing companies. There is also a paintball arena and plenty of places to hire mountain bikes, jeeps and motor bikes in Thongsala. There are regular Thai Boxing matches in the evenings and also several parties in Baan Tai and on the Wok Tum coast.

Shopping

Thongsala is the island's main trading post with an excellent variety of crafts, jewellery, clothes, artwork and traditional Thai items. There are a great number of boutique shops throughout the town and numerous supermarkets and fresh produce stalls.

facebook
www.facebook.com/phangan.info
PHANGAN.INFO on Facebook

Prices are reasonable and are often hard to beat and many outlets supplying goods in bulk for export. Most shops are open till 8 or 9 in the evening.

Bars

There are loads of bars in Thongsala, with the majority on the main street; many have pool tables and TV for live sporting events. From Ao Nai Wok to Ao Hin Kong there are several hillside bars with great sunset views. Heading towards Baan Tai from Thongsala there are numerous beer bars lining either side of the road.

Accommodation

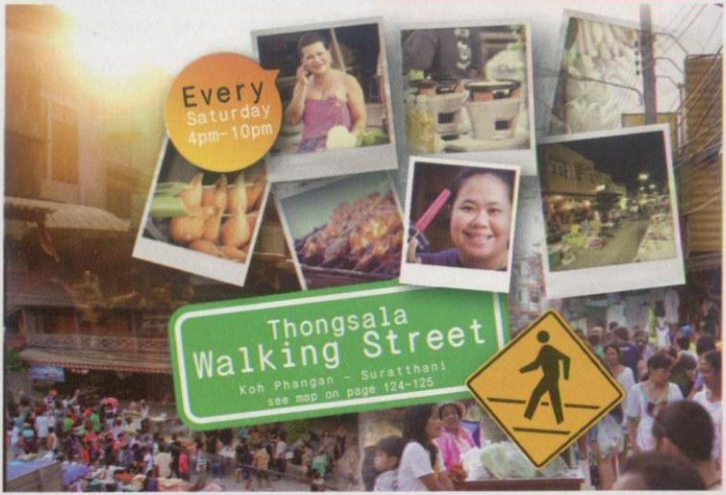

There are several guesthouses and hotels in the Thongsala area which are good value and ideal if you need to stay in town for an early ferry. There are also numerous reasonably priced resorts along the beaches either side of the town.

Walking Street

Each Saturday Taladkao Road (map on page 124) in Thongsala springs to life with its weekly walking market. Vendors from across the island come to tout their wares that range from gourmet goodies, funky beach clothes, accessories and ethnic handicrafts.

With something for everyone, visitors can stock up on souvenirs or better still sample the best of local cuisine. Mouth watering treats include fresh sushi, spicy seafood salads and curries of every colour. When tired of the hustle and bustle, kick back with a beer at one of the surrounding bars and restaurants. The market is open from 4pm 'til late.

BAAN TAI & BAAN KHAI

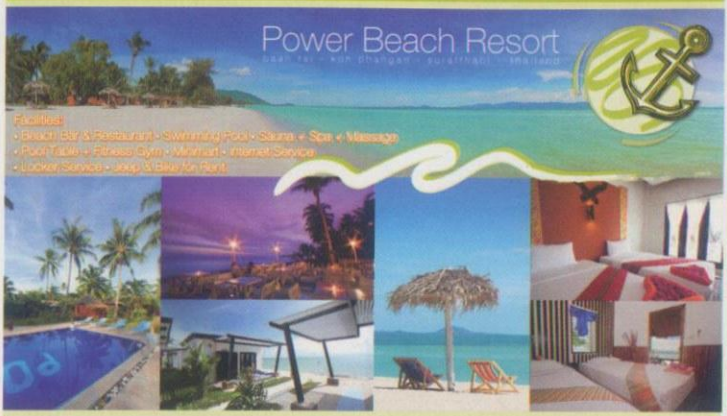

From Thongsala down to Baan Khai, the coastline is all in lowland areas and has long been used as coconut plantation. The flat land allows the beaches to run uninterrupted for over eight kilometers, broken only by streams and rivers that spring from the surrounding mountains. The resorts are generally well spaced, have a good deal of beach frontage and it is always possible to find a secluded spot anywhere along the long white sand beach.

As many of the resorts are close to Thongsala and Haad Rin, this makes the Baan Tai/Baan Khai area popular for those who want to be near the action, but not too near. It is a short taxi ride to Haad Rin over the hills which normally take about 10 to 20 minutes.

There is also a small town in Baan Tai with a local market, boat harbour and fishing pier. A cluster of traditional seafood restaurants, a Italian pizza place, several funky bars, coffee shops and a fresh bakery are all within easy walking distance of the port. Further down the road at the junction to Thong Nai Pan there are plenty of internet and travel agents, a 24 hour convenience store and a couple of ATMs.

The area around Baan Tai is home to several well-orgainsed parties open outside of Full Moon, all of which offer a crazy night out and even though they do charge an entry fee all of them are genuine value for money.

BEACHES

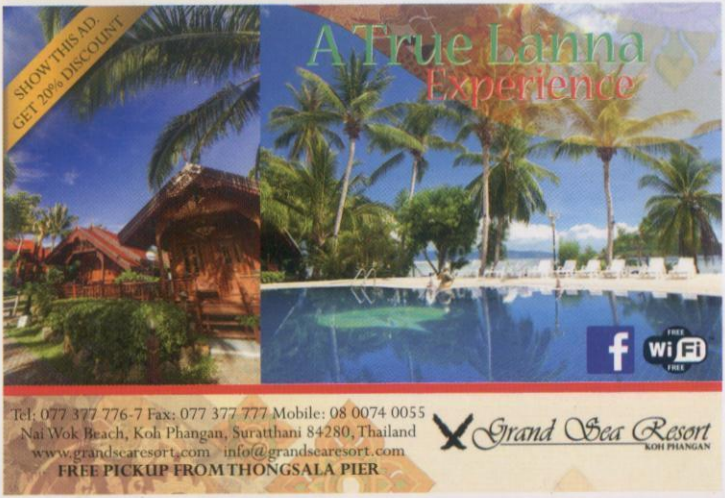

Ao Wok Tum

Ao Wok Tum is the southern section of the wide bay that joins with Ao Hin Kong. Most of the bay is undeveloped as the coral reef lies about 300 metres off the beach. Mangrove trees line the beaches and give the place a real untouched feel, great for catching a sunset in solitude. A sign warns not to take seashells and corals from the bay, respect this as it is a haven for nature and it is illegal to take them home.

Ao Plaay Laem

Ao Plaay Laem is at the base of Khao Hin Nok, a granite mountain that dominates and transforms the landscape, making it a fairy tale of rounded boulders and hillside views over Ang Thong Marine Park. The bay is fairly shallow preceding the reef that lies about 80 metres away. Over the reef there are corals and marine life for snorkelling enthusiasts and a few resorts hire kayaks so you can paddle around the huge boulders in the sea.

Ao Nai Wok

Ao Nai Wok is the long bay that extends north from Thongsala after the main pier. At the top end, walking distance from town yet far enough away never to notice it, a number of resorts populate the beach and rocks start to break up the coastline. There is a reef about 80 metres out where the sea shelf drops allowing for some reasonable snorkelling conditions. Kayaks are also available for hire at a few resorts.

Ao Bang Charu

Ao Bang Charu is a peaceful beach with sunset views over Koh Samui; well away from the main road and big enough to really get away from it all. There are several well established resorts, some offering high standards of accommodation whilst others are great value.

Ao Baan Tai

Ao Baan Tai is the middle section of the long sunset beach that runs the length of the south-east coast. There is a small marina in the centre of Baan Tai where you can commission boat and fishing trips. Either side of the marina the wide white sand beach gradually slopes to meet the coral reef about 200 metres away.

Ao Baan Khai

The beach of Baan Khai bay is quite broad in places and countless coconut palms populate the lowland plains of the area. There is plenty of room on the beach if you're seeking solitude and a few beach bars dotted along the coastline.

GUIDE TO SOUTH EAST

WWW.PHANGAN.INFO

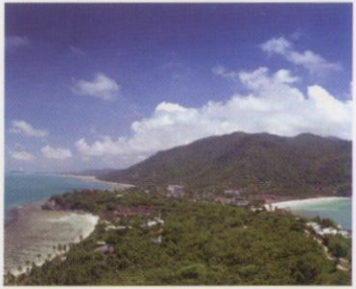

INTRODUCTION

The south east of Koh Phangan is dominated by mountains that occupy virtually the whole region. Apart from the lowlands on the middle of the peninsula, the rest of the landscape is formed in rugged granite, with steep hills leading up to lush peaks covered in tropical rainforest. The beaches are varied with inaccessible getaways found on the east coast, the long winding beaches of Ao Hin Lor and Haad Leela; and Haad Rin, the party capital and most densely populated place on Koh Phangan.

Heading west, the landscape softens and coral starts to appear, the beaches are long unbroken white sand, populated with well-spaced resorts. Thus Haad Leela and Ao Hin Lor are popular places for folk who want to get away from the hubbub of Haad Rin whilst still being near everything.

The main attraction to the area is the party town of Haad Rin, though if you head west or north, there are some great secluded beaches where you can immerse yourself in tropical paradise.

HAAD RIN (SUNSET & SUNRISE)

Full Moon Party

The well-known Full Moon Party that attracts hundreds of thousands of visitors to Haad Rin Nok beach every year is now a global event talked about throughout the world.

For more information see page 50.

Haad Rin can be divided into two sections, Haad Rin Nok, the lively party beach and Haad Rin Nai, which has a quieter bohemian feel. Haad Rin Nok has the biggest concentration of rooms, clubs and bars, so if you stay there you will be right in the thick of the party vibe. The beach itself is one of the biggest on the island and it fills with sunbathers by day and party goers at night, visiting the many beach clubs and bars that Haad Rin is so famous for.

Haad Rin Nai is located on the southern coast of the peninsula and although there are many restaurants and places to go, it is much more peaceful than the other side, with more boutiques than bars. It's only a short walk to the party beach, so it's an ideal place to stay, within walking distance to all the action but far enough away for some peace and quiet.

Services

Haad Rin is fairly well serviced and has numerous facilities in the town so that you do not have to head to the island's capital if you need assistance. There is a police sub-station, the Bandon Inter and Siam International clinics, several pharmacies, a post office, four banks, numerous ATMs and money exchange windows.

Restaurants

Haad Rin offers the most cosmopolitan mix of restaurants on Koh Phangan, with a vast choice of different tastes all within walking distance of each other. There are beachfront seafood BBQs, Italian, Mexican, Israeli, Scandinavian, Moroccan, Mediterranean, Tapas, Indian and many more varieties as well as traditional Thai restaurants and street stalls. Just wander around the town and head for what you fancy.

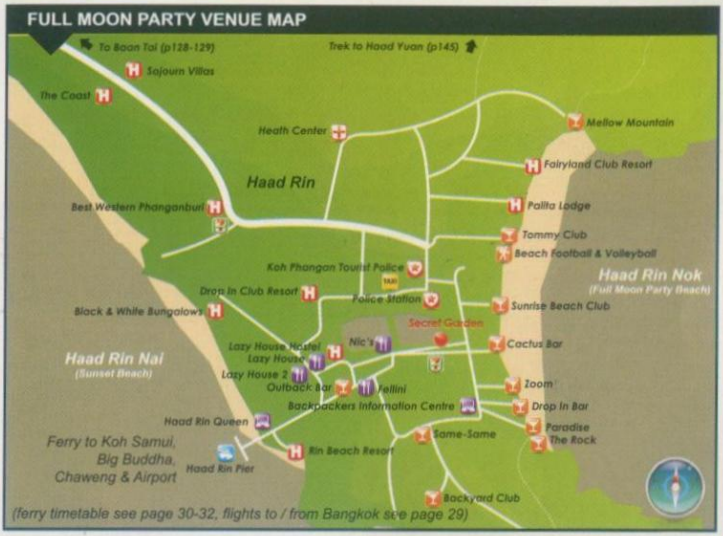

Entertainment

There is plenty to keep you occupied between partying in Haad Rin, with several boat trips going to waterfalls and beaches around the island, fishing trips and watersports such as sailing and diving, beach volleyball, beach football and of course sunbathing! There are also some great walks over to the hills of the east coast to secluded beaches and some great beach walks up on the south coast.

Shopping

Haad Rin is a great place to shop with an excellent variety of crafts, jewellery, clothes, artwork and traditional Thai items. There are a great number of boutique shops throughout the town running all the way to the pier. Prices are reasonable and are often hard to beat, even in Bangkok, there are also many outlets supplying goods in bulk for export.

Bars & Nightlife

You are spoilt for choice if you fancy a drink in the island's nightlife capital. There are beachfront bars for sunset cocktails, beach clubs if you want to dance and loads of bars in the town with everything from pool tables to Playstations. Then there is the famous clubbing scene that Haad Rin offers, check local publicity and flyers to see which party to head for.

Accommodation

Haad Rin offers a great variety of accommodation options, from old skool beach huts to palatial A/C suites. The main party beach of Haad Rin Nok is very lively, but great if you want to be in the middle of everything. Haad Rin Nai is quieter and often easier to finding a room on. Further round the peninsula on Leela beach there are several nice new resorts and down to Ao Hin Lor there are some great value huts as well as a few high end operations.

BEACHES

Haad Rin Nok (sunrise)
Haad Rin Nok is the party beach on the sunrise side of the peninsula; it is an extremely picturesque beach which by day is full of sunworshippers and in the evenings, full of nightlife. Here a day on the beach is only the warm up for the coming night out on the tiles.

When swimming, try to stick to the cordoned off safety zones, far from Jet ski's and long tails that cruise the bay.

Haad Rin Nai (sunset)
On Haad Rin Nai there are several high end resorts, great for escaping the noise of the parties and relaxing in air con as well as a few cheapies. The beach itself is usually fairly deserted and it's got a good stretch of white sand on which you can while away a few secluded hours.

Haad Khontee
Haad Khontee is a small deserted beach in the bay of Haad Rin Nok, there are no bungalows and it is best accessed by foot, strong tides can make it a danger to swim to.

Ao Hin Lor
Ao Hin Lor is a long white sand beach fringed by coral. There are several resorts spaciously placed with both low end and high end accommodation available.

Haad Leela (Haad Seekantang)
Haad Leela is located on the headland and is a great beach to stay at if you want to be near the action, but not too near. It has a relaxed atmosphere and a long palm fringed white sand beach.

Haad Yuan
Only a short trip aboard a long tail from Haad Rin is the bay of Haad Yuan. So close, yet so far removed from the crowds of the main town, here you can step back in the groove of old Phangan life. Island style bungalows are strewn over the rocky headlands, joined by a series of rickety wooden walkways, while the wide stretch of sandy beach dissolves into the thick jungle of the surrounding hillsides. It is also accessible by mountain footpath (see page opposite) or a rough dirt road from Baan Khai (see page 137 for map).

Haad Thian (east)
Haad Thian has been a favourite with the new age and travelling crowd ever since people started trying to escape from Haad Rin. The Sanctuary (see page 3) is a healing centre with instruction in yoga, tai chi, meditation and massage that is built into the huge boulders on the hillside overlooking Haad Thian. There are also several other bungalow operations. Access only by boat or mountain footpath.

Haad Wai Nam
Haad Wai Nam is a small rock fringed beach with idyllic white sand and beautiful clear green waters, great for swimming. There is one resort at present, who generate their own power and the beach can only be reached on foot or by boat.

Haad Yao (east)
Haad Yao is a scenic secluded bay with white sand and clear waters and is only accessible on foot or by boat, there is one resort that offers a collection of rustic bungalows and has to generate their own power giving it a real desert island feel.

Haad Yang
Haad Yang is the destination for those who want to experience their own adventure. Totally undeveloped but for a couple of rudimentary shacks that provide shade to local fishermen. The beach itself is beautiful, but the real thrills are found just inland, following a small river leads to a series of waterfalls and rock pools.

Longtail Boats

Off the itineraries of package tours, all you'll need for what could be the ultimate island experience is a longtail boat and keen sense of adventure.

Most importantly when negotiating a longtail; boat drivers are more than happy to take you out on a half or full day trip making as many or few stops as you like. To visit the east coast beaches at your leisure you would need a full day - setting off at 9am and arriving back around 5pm. Make sure you agree the hours before you set off. Shop around to get an idea of prices - although it's expensive if you're on your own - if you share the cost with a group of willing friends it works out to be a bit of a bargain!

Walking on the dirt road behind Fairyland Resort and Palita Lodge, go straight past the entrance to these resorts and up the hill to pick up the trail starting at Laluna Bungalows. It isn't immediately obvious on arriving at Laluna Bungalows, but you'll soon find a small steep track which quickly ascends the mountain, soon after you'll notice the "green dots" on the trees and rocks, and there are extra white arrow markers along the way to help you keep in the right direction. The views overlooking Haad Rin are stunning and worth a short climb, keep going to the top of the mountain, over the plateau and back down the other side to reach the beautiful beaches at Haad Thian and Haad Yuan. The trek should take no more than 2 hours to complete. The jungle can be dense on top of the mountain and there are plenty of other tracks going in different directions so leave early to avoid getting lost in the dark and make sure you have plenty of water to keep hydrated. (See map on page 137)

GUIDE TO NORTH WEST

WWW.PHANGAN.INFO

INTRODUCTION

The north west coast of Koh Phangan plays host to the island's most diverse and interesting stretch of coral reef. There are more corals here than anywhere else on the island that make it so suitable for diving and snorkelling. From Haad Chao Phao to Koh Ma, there are dive sites at every beach and virtually all of them can be swam to, making it possible for every level of underwater enthusiast to enjoy the amazing marine life. At the point where Ao Wok Tum meets Laem Srithanu, the coral reef starts nearer the beach and the wide sand flats that dominate the coast further south become smaller; thus the swimming conditions improve dramatically and the coral rich area becomes a haven for marine life. The coastline also starts to break up, forming more coves and bays that isolate each beach and enhance the beauty of the landscape.

The outstanding natural beauty of the area has drawn visitors since the first bungalow operations started twenty or so years ago, thus there are many well-established family run resorts that have set the high quality of accommodation that exists in the region; a lot have swimming pools, air con rooms and even wine lists.

There are several waterfalls in the region and it is easily possible to beach hop up the coast by foot if you want to explore the area, whilst at the southern end of Haad Chao Phao, Laem Son Lake is a great place to get a swim in freshwater under the backdrop of cool shady pines. Due to the north-west's longstanding popularity, there is great seafood, Isaan food and noodles; there are also several restaurants serving top quality European food in the region as well as plenty of nightlife, with several great beach bars/clubs.

SRITHANU

Baan Srithanu, the local village and small fishing port is a quaint and interesting place with quite a lot going on. There are several bars and great value Thai restaurants, a popular Italian diner and one of best steakhouses on the island, as well as a fresh produce market and food area that is located at the main crossroads.

Haad Chao Phao is only a few minutes walk from Baan Srithanu where there are several cool beach bars, a pub and a few good places to eat; there is also Laem Son Lake, a freshwater pine shaded paradise - look out for the lakeside restaurant with water activities. The coastline changes at Laem Srithanu, where the sea gets deeper and a vibrant coral reef thrives, thus anywhere along this coastline there is an amazing underwater world just metres away.

South of Laem Srithanu the sea is shallower thus there are fewer resorts, but that adds to the draw of the wide open space giving a feeling of seclusion and tranquility; thus the Hin Kong to Srithanu area is very popular for long term house rental. The area is also home to a thriving spiritual community, an abundant supply of yoga retreats, detox centres and holistic practitioners; each ready to guide you through a tailored programme of treatments.

AROUND HAAD YAO

Haad Yao is thought to be one of the most beautiful beaches on Koh Phangan with a wide cove flanked by steep rocky peninsulas surrounding nearly one kilometre of perfect white sand. It is a popular beach that has developed to accommodate both budget and high end tourist markets with several great restaurants and a variety of beachfront bars. There are also supermarkets, a snooker hall and some cool viewpoint bars.

Further up the coast Haad Thian and Haad Kruad are secluded getaways with some great rooms on the beach. Haad Salad used to be a pirates hideout but has moved on since then, with old skool and high end resorts, a beautiful landscape and coral reef; making it very similar to Haad Yao but on a smaller scale. Further north Haad Mae Had and Koh Ma are a tropical and underwater paradise bordering Koh Phangan's only Marine Park. Koh Ma is a small island just off the coast with a sandbar that links the two islands. Here it's possible to spot turtles, harmless reef sharks and swim amongst shoals of colourful tropical fish. The region is fairly mountainous away from the coast, with Wang Sai Waterfall and a number of mountain trails and walks to follow; and with the large concentration of beaches in the north west, it is possible to beach hop up the coastline by kayak or longtail.

CHALOKLUM

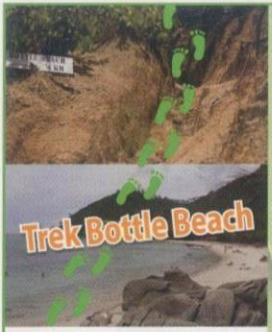

Chaloklum village is the north's main fishing port and has a wealth of inexpensive seafood restaurants serving fresh delicacies such as locally caught squid. There are also a few bars to visit and Chaloklum is home to various activities including archery, elephant trekking, wakeboarding and scuba diving.

The maritime roots have encouraged several dive schools to locate here and there are numerous dive and snorkelling sites nearby. It is fairly mountainous and gets more rugged as you head east, thus there are a number of trails to climb if you're into walking, waterfalls to visit and the Chinese Temple just outside the village.

Chaloklum beach itself is very long, the village is located in the middle and good value resorts flank either side of the scenic bay. Further east Haad Khom has a small coral reef popular with snorkellers and both good value and high end resorts; there is now a concrete road which makes it easy to drive by motorbike, while it is also easy enough to walk around the coastline or - for an island experience - boat taxis run regularly from the pier in Chaloklum to Bottle Beach.

Warnings:
Not suitable for small children or elderly due to steep climb and remoteness. Take plenty of water, allow around 2 hours for each way. Always inform a friend or the hotel staff before you leave.

Adventurous travellers that want to get off the beaten track can test their endurance with a trek to Bottle Beach. Covering a total distance of around 4-5 kilometres, tired legs are rewarded by some stunning vistas and the soft white sands and turquoise waters of one Koh Phangan's most beautiful beaches!

Indicated by a small sign on the right hand side, the start point for the dirt trail can be found just beyond the end of the concrete road that runs from the west of Chaloklum. From here the path winds up the mountain through dense trees and shrubs, marked every few metres by empty water bottles. Trekkers can take a breather at the summit, before beginning the steep decent into the bay. At a steady pace, the trek should take approximately an hour.

After cooling off with a dip and soaking up the sun, less strenuous return journeys can be made aboard long tails that leave from the beach throughout the day. Be sure to take plenty of water and wear sturdy footwear as the loose gravel and uneven ground make it easy to fall! Never attempt the trek in wet weather as the trail quickly becomes slippery and can be affected by flash floods. (See map opposite)

BEACHES

Ao Hin Kong

Ao Hin Kong is a long bay that is mostly undeveloped, the coral reef lies about 300 metres off the beach and Mangrove trees line the coast giving the place an untouched feel, great for catching a sunset in solitude. A sign warns not to take seashells and corals from the bay, respect this as it is a haven for nature and it is illegal to take them home.

Ao Srithanu

Laem Srithanu is a peninsula lying between Hin Kong and Ao Srithanu. It extends way out from the coast and the small beaches that populate its coastline are close to the coral reef. It's also a good spot for beach fishing. On the northern end of Srithanu Bay the beach is split by a river estuary and has to be reached by footbridge, the sand is plentiful and the beach wide.

Haad Chao Phao

Haad Chao Phao has beautiful sunset views and softly curved bay that is the image of paradise. The sand is white and fine and the sea shelf is steeper before the reef, thus it is possible to swim whatever the tidal conditions. The reef is about 100 metres from the beach and once crossed the rich coral and vibrant sea life are an attraction for divers and snorkellers.

Haad Son

Haad Son is a secluded tropical getaway that has some good quality resorts at its northern end. It is a small scenic palm fringed cove with a wide stretch of white sand.

Haad Dao Deuk

At the southern point of Haad Yao beach is Haad Dao Deuk, a tiny private cove with its own white sand beach and secluded sunset views. Wile away your desert island dreams at this secret hideaway.

Haad Yao

Haad Yao or "Long Beach" is picture postcard material, with a 1km beach that is wide enough to play football on with sunset views, coral reef, beautiful vistas and more than enough space to allow for its ever expanding popularity; many consider it the "perfect" beach.

Haad Thian (west)

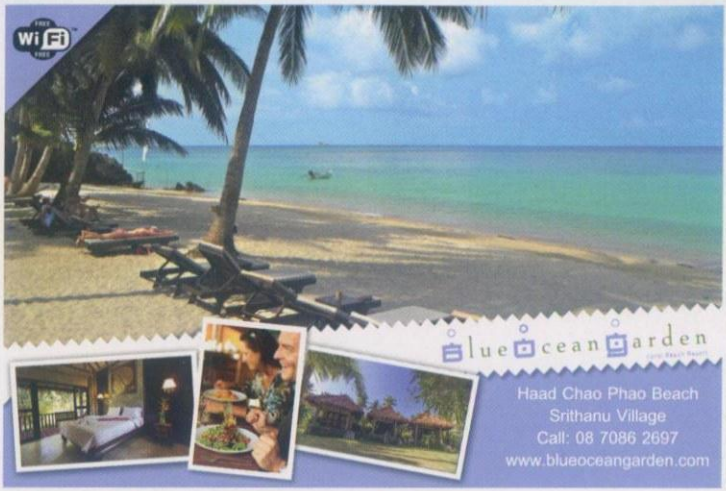

Haad Thian is a small secluded beach with only one resort. Here the sand is courser mixed with coral deposits. It is fairly close to the reef, but is shallow before it thus swimming conditions are best in high tidal season unless you venture over the reef.

Haad Kruad

Haad Kruad is a small picturesque beach with course sand and coral deposits. A shallow tide and an offshore reef means it is perfect for snorkellers and families; there is one boutique resort.

Haad Salad

Haad Salad is a beautiful and peaceful beach; good for swimming in high tidal seasons with a reef about 150 metres offshore that is a well-known dive site.

Haad Mae Haad

Mae Haad has recently gone through a lot of changes, it has greatly improved road connections and there is a village building up behind it. There are quite a few resorts, but as the beach is fairly long, there's still enough room for solitude. It has sunset views over Koh Ma and the waters and coral reef that surround it are designated as a Marine Park as they are so rich in sea life, with turtles and small reef sharks. The beach has a sand bar that you can walk across to reach Koh Ma.

Haad Thong Lang

Haad Thong Lang or "Golden Deserted Beach" is exactly that. At present there are still no permanent settlers there, although recently a couple of huts have gone up but are rarely inhabited. It has a shallow coral bay with a reef that creates a beautiful lagoon in high tide.

Ao Chaloklum

The beach on Ao Chaloklum is about 2½km long, with the village of Chaloklum right in the centre. As it is still primarily a fishing village you can find the local fishermens' wonderfully handcrafted longtail boats with truck engines mounted on the back; a great view to take in while eating in the local restaurants. At either side of the village there are some nice wide stretches of palm fringed beach.

Haad Khom

Haad Khom is a pretty little white sandy beach on the east side of Chaloklum Bay, known for its laid back vibes and is popular with long-termers looking to get away from the hoards. It is a popular spot for snorkelling due to the extensive living coral reef. Within 20 minutes walk from the conveniences of Chaloklum village.

GUIDE TO NORTH EAST

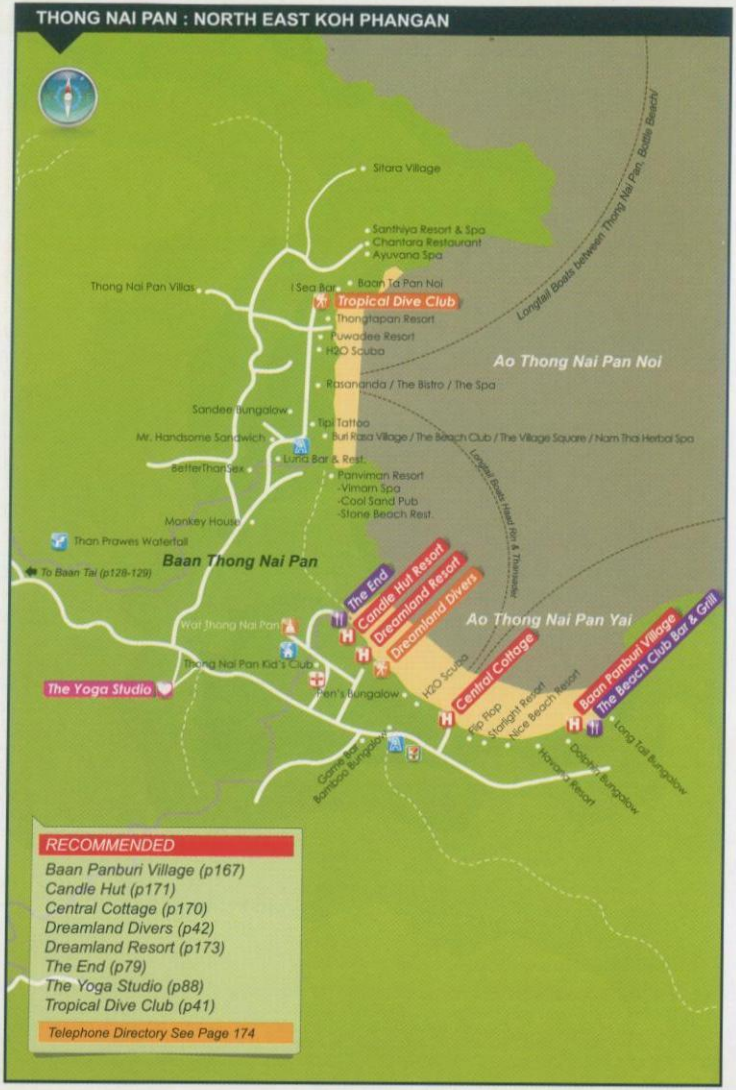

WWW.PHANGAN.INFO

INTRODUCTION

The wild and untamed east coast of Koh Phangan is the most mountainous region on the island. Steep volcanic hills run down to sheer cliffs that dominate the rugged coastline. Only a few beaches occupy this region and all that do are formed into idyllic deep coves that are the embodiment of tropical paradise. Thong Nai Pan Yai and Thong Nai Pan Noi are two of the island's most celebrated beaches they also have the most vibrant scene on the north east coast with plenty of bars and the biggest village in the region. Haad Sadet and Haad Thong Reng are very similar to the Thong Nai Pans, but on a smaller and quieter scale. The river that splits these two beaches forms Koh Phangan's most dramatic waterfall, Nam Tok Thaan Sadet, a cascading year round 4km run of rock pools and rapids. It has become a favourite place for several Kings of Thailand to visit and the waters are considered sacred.

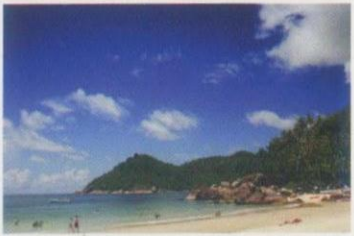

The rocky mountainous landscape is far more rugged than the rest of the island and its uncultivated slopes are the most part original tropical rainforest; an untouched haven for wildlife. There are several impressive waterfalls to visit, Thaan Sadet National Park with its giant monitor lizards and a number of places for experienced rock-climbing enthusiasts. The landscape makes the region fairly inaccessible, thus there are no major services locally and the roads are mostly part baked clay and can be hazardous, especially in adverse weather conditions. That said, Koh Phangan's road building program has extended to this district and a concrete road all the way over the mountains will be completed soon. All of the beaches can be reached by boat taxis from Chaloklum or Haad Rin.

THONG NAI PAN

Thong Nai Pan (TNP) has been a major hit on the travelling circuit for many years with an amazingly beautiful landscape, great vibe and unique islander hospitality that can only come from this part of Koh Phangan. It really is laid back but still has plenty going on; with a selection of two beaches, countless beach bars and restaurants and loads to do locally.

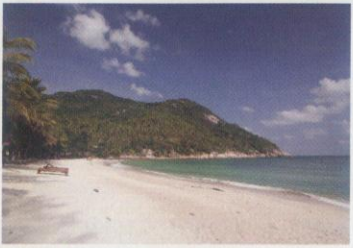

The mountainous terrain provides some excellent hikes and walks, with a scenic waterfall trail starting from TNP Noi that runs for about 2kms and there is endless tropical rainforest to explore. Offshore there is everything on offer from scuba diving to fishing trips and loads more if you have the energy. For a truly Thai experience take a day trip by longtail boat to Bottle Beach or Thaan Sadet waterfall.

TNP Yai is the larger of the two bays, laced with wide white stretch of sand, leaving plenty of space between the rooms. Unlike the west side of the island, neither beach has a coral reef, which although doesn't make them great for snorkelling, it does mean that the waters are deep and perfect for all year round swimming and water sports. Accommodation options are varied, you can take your pick from family friendly resorts to flash packer bungalows.

A short hop over the headland brings you to TNP Noi. Always considered the prettier sister to TNP Yai, this bay has undergone a radical transformation in recent years, with many of the original beach front bungalows being replaced by exclusive 4-star resorts. All grown up - TNP Noi is now an enclave for people looking for luxury. For those who don't want to blow the budget a few lower key accommodation options still exist and behind the main strip visitors can still enjoy the original village which holds firmly onto its authentic bohemian roots.

Both beaches have internet, ATMs and supermarkets. No matter which you choose, they are within walking distance of each other and are both equally as rewarding.

BEACHES

Bottle Beach (Haad Khuat)

Haad Khuat or Bottle Beach is one of the island's most well-known beaches and is a Mecca for long-termers and old skool Phangan aficionados. It is considered one of the most beautiful beaches on the island due to its wide golden shoreline, the lush mountainous cove surrounding it. Its inaccessibility has meant visitors tend to stay longer than a week and it is usually reached by boat taxi from Chaloklum. If the weather comes in, you can get stranded here for a day or two as boats can only navigate here in calm seas (there is a road from Thong Nai Pan, but it's very hard going).

Thong Nai Pan Noi

Immensely beautiful and with great swimming, the quieter of the Thong Nai Pan beaches has a somewhat legendary status amongst travellers. Along the beachfront 4-star resorts mix it up with mid-range accommodation options. There's a small village built up behind the beach with a few cool bars and funky restaurants keeping the old skool Phangan vibe alive.

Thong Nai Pan Yai

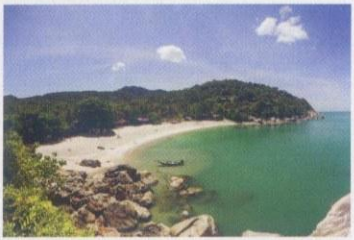

Thong Nai Pan Yai is the larger of the two bays, equally as beautiful laced with its wide white stretch of sand, and the busier

THAAN SADET WATERFALL

Thaan Sadet waterfall was first visited by Thai Royalty in 1888 when King Rama V left an inscription on a rock that remains today; he revisited the same spot more than 10 times. The present King Bhumibol has also been to this sacred series of falls, where the river waters are used in certain Royal Ceremonies that obtain water from only a few sources around Thailand. It is a fairy tale of huge granite boulders and multitudes of fresh water pools and can be walked its full length of 3kms. The falls are more like huge stepping stones and can be approached from numerous places; either from the magnificent beach of Haad Thaan Sadet or on the road into Thaan Sadet (beware; only experienced motorcyclists should attempt the Thaan Sadet road, otherwise take a boat, taxi or hire a jeep).

of the pair. It is slightly longer with more space between rooms, accommodation is varied ranging from your basic hut to air-con villas. It is also home to the main village of the region with all the essential services one may require.

Haad Sadet

Haad Sadet is a beach situated at the mouth of the Thaan Sadet river. Small, but perfectly formed this picturesque cove is flanked by steep green hills and huge boulders that tumble into the turquoise waters. A truly tranquil spot of bohemian bungalows and chilled island vibes. If you are looking for a slice of island life, then look no further. Here accommodation is comfortable, but holds a Robinson Crusoe appeal, the local families are warm and the beach, breathtaking. Not far, back up the dirt track, visitors can explore the wonders of the Thaan Sadet waterfall and surrounding National Park.

Haad Thong Reng

A few minutes walk from Haad Sadet, Thong Reng is the quieter of the two beaches and is a secluded sandy get away.

Haad Nam Tok

Haad Nam Tok or Waterfall beach is accessible via a small track and is bordered by Thaan Prawet Waterfall; it has a few good value resorts on the hilldside and an isolated old skool feel.

Beach Hopping

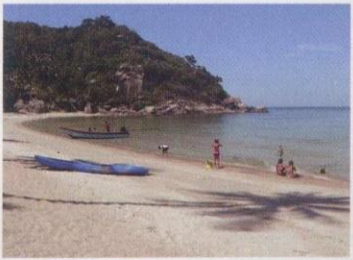

The rugged mountains that dominate the north east coast means that many of the most beautiful beaches on the island are difficult to reach by motorbike or car. Perhaps the easiest way to visit less developed beaches such as Haad Sadet, Bottle Beach, Haad Thian (east) and Haad Yuan is by longtail boat taxi.

Beach hopping down the east coast would be a perfect day trip for small groups; exploring the beaches and nearby waterfalls, passing breathtaking natural scenery - a totally tropical experience.

Ask some of the local Thais or at your resort to find a suitable boat for this trip.

Haad Yang

Haad Yang is the destination for those who want to experience their own adventure. Totally undeveloped but for a couple of rudimentary shacks that provide shade to local fishermen. The beach itself is beautiful, but the real thrills are found just inland, following a small river leads to a series of waterfalls and rock pools.

Recommended as a great source of information by the Lonely Planet, Rough Guide and several other leading Thailand guides

"There's no TAT office on Ko Pha Ngan, but a couple of free, widely available booklets provide regularly updated information about the Island: Phangan Info (which has a particularly good website, on which you can book accommodation, at www.phangan.info)"

The Rough Guide to Thailand 2009, The Rough Guide to Thailand's Beaches & Islands 2009

"Several mini-magazines also offer comprehensive information about the island's accommodation, restaurants, activities and Full Moon Parties. Our favourite option is the pocket-sized Phangan Info (www.phangan.info)."

Lonely Planet : Thailand's Islands & Beaches 2008, 2010 & Thailand 2012
